In the matter of William E. Brightman vs William G. Ward, Judge Baker of the Superior Court has rendered an opinion, the substance of which is as follows:

"Upon these findings I am of the opinion that the complainant is entitled to have the preliminary injunction already issued, made permanent, and that it would be proper to include therein an order forbidding the disclosure to anyone, of any information as to such expirations of policies and the retention by the respondent of any list or copy of such expirations.

"I am also of the opinion that the complainant is entitled to an account from the respondent for all commissions received by or due from him on all insurance business done by him in violation of the said contract of July 1st, 1901, that is to say, on the renewals of insurance policies in force July 1st, 1904, obtained by him on his solicitation."

Decision of Ohio Coal Operators at Cleveland.

May Result in a Strike of Western Miners.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 8.—At a meeting here today of the Ohio coal operators it was decided not to concede the demands of the miners for an increase in wages. This action, it is believed, makes a strike of the Ohio miners very probable.

DISCUSS MINERS' AFFAIRS.

Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell Confer in New York.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today discussed the negotiations now pending between the hard and soft coal operators and miners. Mr. Gompers said later that he had promised Mr. Mitchell all the support possible which the American Federation of Labor can give him.

President Gompers came here to confer with labor leaders concerning the structural iron workers and building troubles in this city. He said he did not want to bring about a general strike in the building trade, but that if the other unions support the housesmiths who are now on strike and the employes do not give way on the question of the open shop, there was likely to be a general strike.

STATEHOOD BILL DISCUSSED.

Senator McCumber Presents Substitute for Pending Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate met at 11 o'clock today in order to afford additional time for the discussion of the statehood bill, but when Mr. McCumber began to speak on the bill at 11:15 fewer than a dozen Senators were in their seats.

Mr. McCumber first presented a substitute for the statehood bill, creating one state of Oklahoma and another of Indian Territory, the latter under the name of Sequoia, in honor of the Cherokee scholar of that name, and entirely eliminating New Mexico and Arizona. He argued against the consolidation of the territories into fewer states, contending that more Western states were necessary to give the agricultural and other trans-Mississippi interests strong representation in Congress.

Mr. McCumber declared that the time would come when the East would find its progress in the West. He referred to the influence of the foreign immigration in eastern communities, and in this connection said that at its last election Chicago had elected a Socialist as mayor.

When McCumber closed Mr. Tillman gave notice that as soon as an opportunity offers he will address the Senate on the message of the President sent to the Senate yesterday on the coal inquiry resolution. He referred to the Presidential message as a "very remarkable document."

Mr. Patterson then spoke in opposition to the passage of the house statehood bill. He devoted his attention almost exclusively to the portion of the bill providing for the joining of Arizona and New Mexico, and contended that Arizona as now founded had an unquestionable right to ultimate statehood.

DISAGREES WITH PRESIDENT.

Senator Tillman Refuses to Amend Gillespie Resolution.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Senator Tillman said today that he did not intend to offer any proposition to amend the Tillman-Gillespie railroad investigation resolution in accordance with the suggestions of the President. He says the resolution is sufficient to meet the objects intended, and he disagrees with the view of the President.

GREEN CASE GIVEN TO JURY.

Justice Gould Reads Charge After Argument for Government.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Major Holmes Conrad, special counsel for the government, resumed his argument to the jury in the trial of former State Senator Green of New York, when court convened today. Mr. Conrad's address to the jury is the concluding argument in the case. He dwelt upon the testimony of Mr. Wynne, which he had read to the jury in its entirety, concluding that Mr. Wynne was without prejudice. Mr. Conrad concluded at 10:55, when Justice Gould read his charge to the jury.

The court explained that there had been originally two indictments, one charging conspiracy to commit an offence and the other a conspiracy to defraud. The same facts were presented in each. The government having elected to go to the jury on the indictment charging a conspiracy to defraud, the jury was instructed to return a verdict of not guilty on the other indictment.

In the course of his charge Justice Gould instructed the jury that a man's general good character should play a very important part in their consideration of the case.

The jury was instructed that Beavers's plea of guilty was not to be considered, nor the failure of the defendant to take the stand in his own behalf.

The court concluded his charge at 11:41, and gave the case to the jury.

BIG FIGHT IN THE HOUSE.

Sharp Debate on the Westerly-Cranston Representation Act.

(Special despatch to the News.)

PROVIDENCE, March 8.—There was big fight in the house today over the act taking one representative from Westerly and adding it to Cranston, which was the special order of the day. The debate took a partisan and personal form and many sharp things were said on both sides, with repeated attempts to adjourn, but at 3 o'clock the house was still in session and debating the bill.

Before the Special order was taken up in the house Mr. Harvey introduced an old act of last year, providing for a constitutional convention, which was referred to the committee on special legislation.

Mr. Place introduced an act to change the name of the Butler Hospital for the Insane to the Butler Hospital. Referred to the committee on education.

In the senate Senator Stoddard of Portsmouth introduced an act to except from lease an oyster ground in the Seaconnet river near the Stone Bridge. Referred to the committee on fisheries.

From the house were received the act providing for the removal of town sergeants for cause; the act providing for uniformity in probate practices and the mechanics lien bill, which were severally referred to the judiciary committee.

The senate adjourned early in order that the members might hear the debate in the house.

Christian Herald Sends Money to Japanese Relief Fund.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—For the third time the Christian Herald, through Dr. Klopsch, its editor, has made a large contribution to the Japanese relief fund. Today the State Department received from that paper through the Red Cross the sum of $10,000 for transmission to Japan through the American embassy, and it is understood that a similar sum will probably be contributed weekly for some time to come.

TO SAVE NIAGARA FALLS.

Agreement Reached by International Waterways Commission.

TORONTO, Ontario, March 8.—The International waterways commission has adjourned after a two days' session. An agreement was reached regarding Niagara Falls, by which both countries will take all precautions to save its scenic beauty. The American commissioners desired a report of the commission which might form the basis of a treaty between Great Britain and the United States regarding the waters of the Falls. This the Canadians declined unless specially instructed by the government. The next meeting will be held in Washington April 24.

DOES NOT AFFECT POLICE QUESTION.

Statement on Ministerial Crisis in France.

President Confers With Leaders on New Cabinet.

PARIS, March 8.—The government finds itself without a ministry at the culminating stage of the Moroccan conference at Algeciras. A semi-official statement on the subject says: "The ministerial crisis does not affect French policy at the conference."

This is designed chiefly to warn Germany not to take advantage of the situation. The fact is that the ministerial hiatus continues matters and threatens the agreement which otherwise might have been arrived at today.

The vote in the chamber of deputies last night, resulting in the defeat of the government and the resignation of the cabinet, also requires that the government compromise with the church manifestants, who are becoming increasingly demonstrative, particularly the peasants.

President Fallieres today began a series of consultations relative to the formation of a new ministry. He first conferred with M. Dubost, president of the Senate, and later received M. Deumer, president of the Chamber of Deputies. No announcement of the president's course of action has been made, but the names most mentioned are those of Mm. Leon Bourgeois, the former premier; Alexandre Millerand, the former minister of commerce; Raymond Poincaire, former minister of public works, and Senator Clemenceau. There is some talk also of M. Delcasse, the former foreign minister, who is supported by the Anglo-French enthusiasts, but his appointment is impossible, owing to German hostility to him. M. Rouvier wants to retire from the premiership, but he may be induced to retain the portfolio of foreign affairs, or that of finance, under another premier.

M. Dubost advised President Fallieres to ask M. Bourgeois to form a ministry. The names of former President Dibot and Minister of Justice Ctaumie were also mentioned.

DELEGATES SURPRISED.

Fear Cabinet Crisis May Prove Disastrous to French Diplomacy.

ALGECIRAS, Spain, March 8.—The ministerial crisis in Paris caused profound astonishment among the delegates of the powers attending the Moroccan conference, but the details have not yet reached Algeciras. The impression prevails that the event is deplorable and may possibly prove disastrous to French diplomacy. The delegates, however, refuse to commit themselves on the effect which the downfall of the Rouvier cabinet may have on the conference.

Previous to the receipt of the news of the ministerial crisis the tone of discouragement had completely disappeared and the work of rapprochement was proceeding with feverish activity. The conference this morning resumed the discussion of the Moroccan police question. Three distinct propositions were presented—one by the Austrian delegation, embodying the German ideas; another by the French, and the third by the Moroccan mission.

The Austrian plan gives the sultan supreme command of the police and he is to select French officers for the police at four ports, namely, Tangier, Saffi, Rabat and Tetuan, and Spanish officers for three ports, namely, Mogador, Larache and Mazagan. The sul-

PETTICOATS

AND REASONS.

Do you delight in fine petticoats? Well-made, perfect fitting, stylish petticoats.

If so, you will want to hear about our Heatherbloom brand—and should see them.

In the first place—you cannot better the fabrics in these petticoats—strong, durable and long wearing.

Then 'tis well to consider the perfect workmanship—the experienced skill with which they are put together—the exact cutting which gives them their perfect fitting qualities—and lastly the superior finish of the whole garment. It's easy to see that these petticoats are widely apart from the ordinary.

They are undeniably the best in the world.

And yet the prices are no higher. In fact our small profit margins enable us to sell them just a "mite" cheaper. Better look into this.

WANT NO AMENDMENTS.

People Desire the Hepburn Bill as It Stands.

Eastern Man Mixed Up on His Geography—Senators Who Talk in Italics.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Opponents of the Hepburn rate bill in its present form have said that the debate upon the measure would show its weak points and possibly lead to modifications. It may as well be understood at the outset that such modifications will not be made unless they are satisfactory to the President. That the discussion of the bill in the Senate will change public sentiment is very much to be doubted. Congress felt public sentiment a year ago, and the House passed the Esch-Townsend bill, while the Senate ordered a thorough investigation by the interstate commerce committee. It was thought that the facts presented in those hearings would change public sentiment, but it had no appreciable effect—in fact, the Senators and Representatives upon their return to the capital were more convinced than ever that some legislation must pass. The result is the Hepburn bill, and it seems now that no amount of argument will change the result or convince the people that a modification of that measure is desirable for them.

Senators Spooner and Dick use a considerable amount of italics in their speeches. Senator Spooner does not prepare his speeches by writing them out in advance, but when he goes over them for little corrections he rather liberally underscores such words and sentences as he wants emphatic. Sometimes several lines are printed in italics. Senator Dick's speech on the statehood bill was liberally supplied with italics, and even capitals were used to impress his readers. Italics in the Congressional Record are somewhat rare, although the names of ships are always so indicated.

Former Senator John L. Wilson of Washington, a newspaper proprietor now and independent of all politicians, talked to Senator Aldrich during a recent visit to the Capitol as he never would have talked while a Senator and somewhat subject to the leaders' favors, as all new Senators are.

"You are all stampeded," said Wilson to Aldrich. "You are out in a 640 acre lot running wild. You need to be rounded up and corralled."

His words had reference to the divisions among Republicans on various pending measures.

As the time approaches when there will be two vacancies instead of one in the Senate from Delaware unless the Republican faction in that state get together or the Republicans who there is interest manifested in efforts that some Republicans are making to adjust differences. When the last compromise was made Allee of the Addicks faction and Ball of the opposition were chosen Senators, Ball served two years, and no one was elected to succeed him. Allee was elected for four years, and the legislature that is chosen this year will have an opportunity to elect a successor to Allee and fill the vacancy. Allee is considered the head of the Addicks faction in a way, although he has declared against Addicks. Allee has made overtures to the other faction, stating that Addicks is no longer a figure in the situation, suggesting that the two Republican organizations get together. The outcome of this suggestion is being watched with some interest, as the political complexion of two Senators may depend upon it.

Senator Crane and Senator Lodge are more intimate than any two Senators from Massachusetts have been in a score of years. There was friendship, but not much intimacy, between Senator Hoar and Senator Dawes. Senator Lodge was always too progressive to be intimate with Senator Hoar, but Lodge and Crane were close friends before the latter was elected. They are political associates also. Not long ago Lodge rather surprised the Senate by calling across several seats to his colleague:

"Oh, Murray," he said loud enough to be heard across the chamber, and Crane, who is best known as W. Murray Crane, promptly turned around and joined Lodge.

"I wonder what Lodge would do if Crane should call him 'Cabot' in the same way?" remarked a man who observed the incident.

An eastern and western man were having a lively talk on rates the other day, and finally the westerner drifted into talk about Chicago common point rates, Mississippi river rates, Missouri river rates and gulf traffic.

"Hold on there," said the man from the east, "you are talking about Iowa being west of the Mississippi."

"Well, when did they move it?" asked the man from the west.

"Move what?"

"Why, Iowa on the Mississippi."

Then they hunted up a map, and the man from the east said, "I suppose you think it strange that I should be mixed up on my geography."

"Not after I heard you discuss that rate question," was the sarcastic reply.

PROGRESS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

A new force was at work among Moros, and what in civilized men we call at as low and vile became in these savages a saving virtue making for peace and progress. The followers of the datto Alag and the men of Pagayan, who, on account of a damsel bought and paid for but never delivered, had for years been attacking each other on sight, and dared not now as they have their lives meet on market or mall, wiped the score from memory to come and earn money together on the American road. The sultan of Bislet and the sultan of Mamungan, next-door neighbors who, in a way to rack the nerve and wreck the best men ever built, had long been either at war or in a state of continual guard night and day against each other's raids, forgot the old cannon that had been the cause of the trouble, and came to work on the road without friction. Men to whom it had been discredit, if not dishonor, to be found without arms gradually came to lay them aside at the white man's insistence, for a short time at least, while they labored. Harder still for a Moro—whose law is an eye for an eye, conduct for conduct to all generations—a datto, a favorite of mine, under the same influence, came after six months to look, if not for forgiveness, at least without excitement and feverish desire to kill, upon a Moro road laborer of mine, some of whose people in long-gone times had fought and wounded the datto's grandfather.

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS.

Rouvier Ministry Defeated on Debate on Church Disorders.

PARIS, March 7.—The Rouvier ministry was defeated in the Chamber of Deputies tonight and immediately resigned. The cabinet crisis comes at a most dramatic moment, when the Franco-German contest has reached a decisive stage, and may exert an important adverse influence on the Algeciras conference and on European affairs.

The defeat of the government came suddenly, on a comparatively minor debate on the church disorders. The government succeeded in holding only 221 votes, while the various elements in opposition—Clericals, Socialists and Nationalists—united, polled 287 votes, thus placing the ministry in a minority of 33.

Premier Rouvier, with all his colleagues, immediately proceeded to the foreign office, where a joint letter of resignation was prepared. M. Rouvier presented this letter to President Fallieres, who accepted the resignations. The president announced his intention of consulting the president of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies tomorrow relative to the formation of a new cabinet.

The debate in the Chamber of Deputies was upon the bloody riot yesterday during the inventory of a church in the village of Boeschepe, which resulted in the death of a manifestant. Various orators severely criticised the government's course, asserting that it threatened to precipitate religious warfare. Premier Rouvier responded.

"The government has the duty to apply the law. It will apply it without weakness, but also with the prudence, tact and wisdom consistent with public tranquility. I ask the adoption of a resolution approving these declarations of the government."

The resolution was thereupon put to vote and defeated by a combination of opposition influences. The vote was more expressive of personal antagonism to ministry than of opposition to church inventories.

The meeting of the members of the cabinet at the foreign office lasted half an hour. After exchanging views with reference to church inventory it was decided to suspend operations in that regard until a new cabinet has been appointed. Had the chamber voted a motion of confidence in the government the cabinet would have been compelled to continue to apply the law, but the downfall of the ministry having clearly occurred through disapproval of the methods hitherto adopted, which on the one side were considered as too violent and on the other side as too indulgent, M. Rouvier and his colleagues thought it better to discontinue the enforcement of the law.

Before the cabinet crisis the Franco-German controversy over Moroccan control seemed to be in the balance, with the inclination strongly toward an agreement. All depended upon Berlin's last word.

TREASURY TOO SHORT.

Parliament Votes Salaries, but Must Wait for Retrenchments.

LONDON, March 7.—The House of Commons, by a vote of 318 to 110, has declared itself in favor of the payment of its members. Mr. Lever, Liberal, a wealthy soap manufacturer, made a motion declaring that the payment of members was urgently required, and proposing that they be paid £300 yearly.

Although the motion received a majority of 78 in the division the reform is not likely to be effected at present. This was made clear by Prime Minister Campbell-Bannerman, who, while favoring the principle, said the lack of money, owing to the delinquencies of the late government, made the payment of salaries impossible until retrenchments should have been made.

SPOONER SCORES TWO.

Stalwarts Beat La Follette on Two Nominations in Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 7. Senator Spooner of Wisconsin chalked up two wins against his colleague, Senator La Follette, today when the Senate confirmed the nomination of Dr. Amos P. Wilder to be United States consul at Hong Kong, and of David C. Owen to be postmaster at Milwaukee.

Messrs. Wilder and Owen belong to the stalwart wing of the Republican party in Wisconsin, of which Mr. Spooner is the head and front, and they were particularly obnoxious to Mr. La Follette, the chief of the so-called "half-breeds." Mr. La Follette made a bitter fight against Mr. Wilder in committee, declaring that the latter was politically and personally obnoxious to him.

Mr. Owen's offence was his close association with the late Henry C. Payne, who in his lifetime fought La Follette at every turn.

POLICE ACCUSED OF BRIBERY.

Four of the St. Louis Force Indicted by the Grand Jury.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 7.—The names of four police officers indicted by the grand jury on charges of bribery were made public today. The officers are Sergeant G. J. Connors and Patrolmen Edward Cantillon, William J. Haberstroh and Theodore Voltmer. Sergeant Connors and Patrolman Cantillon were placed under arrest when they reported for duty today and were immediately suspended from their official positions. They later gave bond. Patrolmen Haberstroh and Voltmer did not report for duty and a diligent search for them by the police was fruitless. The indictments resulted from the grand jury investigations into charges of "grafting" in the police department.

ENTERS ALFONSO'S FAITH.

Princess Ena Formally Received into Roman Catholic Church.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, March 7. Princess Ena of Battenberg, King Alfonso's fiancee, was formally received into the Roman Catholic Church today. The ceremony took place this morning in the library of the Royal Palace of Miramar, the apartment having been transformed into a temporary chapel. The princess received the baptismal name of Victoria.

Those present at the ceremony included Princess Henry of Battenberg, King Alfonso, Dowager Queen Cristina, Premier Maura and the Duke of Alba. Princess Henry wished the ceremony to be purely private, and so only a few of the women of the aristocracy attended. They were in gala costumes, wearing white mantillas. They presented a magnificent basket of flowers to Princess Ena. A grand family luncheon at the palace followed the religious ceremony.

The palace chapel, which is small, favored the royal desire for privacy, as it will not accommodate more than a few persons. Ex-Queen Cristina wore a mauve dress and splendid jewels. She led Princess Ena by the hand into the chapel when all the others had assembled. The princess was attired in a white robe and mantilla.

The ceremony occupied an hour and a half and was very impressive. Several prelates delivered homilies. Afterward the deeds of abjuration were signed in the sacristy, while a royal salute was fired from the citadel. The deeds will be sent to Rome for the pontifical sanction.

After the ceremony the royal family and the guests attended a grand state luncheon. The townspeople made a festival of the day. Practically every house was decorated with flags. Bands promenaded the streets, playing patriotic airs. This evening the principal streets and the public buildings were illuminated. There were later sports and a grand display of fireworks, which King Alfonso, Princess Ena and many dignitaries witnessed.

THE LIMIT OF THE LAW.

Jury Gives Mrs. Rainey $4000 In Case Against the City.

Evidence, Arguments and the Court's Charge in the Damage Suit.

The superior court resumed business at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the trial in the case of Rainey vs City of Newport proceeding.

Mrs. Catherine Halpin was called by Mr. Levy and testified for plaintiff. She has lived on Prospect Hill street 20 years and has observed the pipe in question, which has been there three or four years. Her attention was called to the pipe many times. All that winter, before the accident, it was so. The pipe was covered with ice and was dangerous. Water came out of the pipe, that ran up and down. There was ice there all winter. When there was a thaw the water would run down and strike that pipe and freeze there. Witness nearly fell over the pipe once in the summer of 1904. The pipe was above the ground. After the accident a change was made in the pipe. There was no change in it before the accident. In summer the pipe was exposed above the ground. Witness is sorry she did not complain to the city about the pipe.

Here plaintiff rested.

Mr. Brown desired to address the court, and the jury was taken out. Mr. Brown moved for a non-suit. The declaration, which is in two counts, complains that the pipe was a danger of which the city had or should have had notice, that there was a hollow in which the water froze and that plaintiff's foot came in contact with the ice, etc. The evidence is that there was no apparent defect in the sidewalk on the day of the accident. This Mr. Brown claimed is the evidence of plaintiff, of Mr. Stoats and of Mrs. Halpin. When the case depends on ice and snow, a written notice of 24 hours must be shown.

Mr. Brown quoted decisions, one of which was to the effect that snow and ice alone would not make the city liable, but that it would be if there were something in addition which in itself would be a cause of liability. He claimed that it must be shown that the snow and ice in question would not have been there but for the pipe, and that this had not been shown.

Colonel Sheffield argued that the evidence showed that the street was not in good condition, because of the pipe, through the summer previous. He thought the case comes within the rule and is one for the jury to determine. Under the decision in 19th R. I., if there were two contributory causes plaintiff may recover.

The court said: "The motion for a non-suit is denied. Bring in the jury."

Mr. Brown then addressed the jury, saying that the evidence of plaintiff was so satisfactory that he would only call the surveyor of highways and would then close the case.

He called William Hamilton to the stand. Mr. Hamilton, surveyor of highways, testified that he never received any notice of any defect in the sidewalk at the point in question. Colonel Sheffield asked if Mr. Slocum had not, many times, called witness's attention to the condition of the street. Witness said Mr. Slocum had asked for fine crushed stone to be put over the soft dirt. Witness admitted that it might have been more than once.

This ended the evidence.

Mr. Brown argued for the city. There is no question that Prospect Hill street is a public highway. It is one of the oldest streets in the city, appearing on a plat drawn by a British officer in 1776, which now hangs in the City Hall. He besp oke from the jurors the same carefulness they would give to a matter against their own towns. Not every injury on a highway means a good case for damages against the city.

There was no actual notice; was it a defect so plain that the city ought to have taken notice of it? Mr. Slocum says the pipe has not been changed; any child could now pass over it safely. Mrs. Halpin, whom Mr. Brown called "a nice old lady," said she "nearly" fell there, but that was in summer, and we are concerned with winter conditions. Plaintiff fell backward, not forward, as would have been the case if she had tripped. It was daylight, and she saw no danger or defect. Mr. Brown claimed that the pipe was invisible, being covered with ice.

If the jury can find any case for plaintiff, give her reasonable damages. If ice is the thing depended upon, it would have been necessary to show 24 hours notice and a failure to remove the ice after such notice. As to damages: The claim of loss for money from roomers is not good, because the sister said there were as many now as formerly, the sister giving some assistance. There is Dr. Sherman's bill. There is none from the hospital yet—it would have come before now if it was coming. This is all the damage shown except the suffering. The city believes there was no danger or obstruction on that street (with snow and ice everywhere) for which it is liable.

Colonel Sheffield argued for plaintiff from 2:55. Plaintiff's statements are practically uncontradicted. The pipe is shown to have been higher than the sidewalk. Mrs. Halpin tripped over it the previous August. Mrs. Rainey had a right to presume the city had done its duty and made a safe sidewalk. If she had been over it before and tripped, as Mrs. Halpin did, then it would have been a duty to go carefully there. For ice and snow, only, a notice to the surveyor of highways must be shown; but if there is a defect in the highway, plaintiff is entitled to a verdict.

The city surveyor of highways has not said he even saw the street for a year, previous to the accident. The record shows repairs there more than 20 years ago. Mr. Slocum walked in the middle of the street and complained to Mr. Hamilton—that is notice to the city. Colonel Sheffield pointed out that the sidewalk looks different, today, just along the pipe, from what it did to the east of it, where it was gullied after the recent heavy rain. If the pipe collected the ice and made a dangerous place, the city is liable. Not charity, but justice, is what plaintiff asks.

What are the damages? Not simply the pay of plaintiff's sister for making the beds. Colonel Sheffield never saw a witness on the stand who showed less disposition to play upon the feelings of a jury in telling her sufferings. Dr. Stewart says it was the worst accident that can happen. For a long time it was necessary to have heavy weights attached to the leg, to get it to knit in the right way. For two months, later, in hot weather, she was confined again. There is still a running sore, her leg is shortened, she never will be a well woman again. The law says the limit of damages against the city shall be $4,000. That is not very much in a case like this. It is a very serious case. The jury has a right to find that if the pipe had not been there; as it was, the injury would not have occurred.

The court charged from 3:24. There is no claim that there was express notice to the city. Plaintiff must prove her case, not beyond a reasonable doubt but by some preponderance of evidence. "Safe and convenient" means reasonably so without obstruction or structural defect, and level, so that with reasonable care a traveler may pass in safety, at all seasons of the year. It is alleged that the city permitted a pipe to be laid across the highway (the sidewalk) if the injury came simply because snow and ice were there no damages can be recovered unless there had been a notice to the surveyor of highways. If, without negligence on her part, plaintiff tripped over this obstruction, and it was one which the city might have known about by reasonable care; if the pipe was such an obstruction and was one cause of the accident, she can recover.

The measure of damages is compensation—for loss of earnings ($4 a week since December 17, 1904), inability to care for her rooms—reasonably certain disability in the future, physical and mental suffering, past and reasonably to be expected, and for the permanent injury. The jurors were instructed to give the case honest and conscientious attention and when a conclusion was reached to report to the court.

Keeper Romes led out the jury at 3:40. It was a well tried case, just as briefly as such a case could well be.

At 4:14 the jury came in and reported a verdict for plaintiff for $4,000—the full amount claimed and the limit of the law. After recording the verdict the court adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

The jurors evidently gave the case careful attention, being out long enough to do this. It is understood that their first vote was unanimous.

THE TWO-CENT RATE.

It is reported that the new rate of two cents a mile over the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, which has been announced, will probably go into effect June 1. Considerable work is to be done before the management can make all the changes necessary. The next day after the News announced the next day after the News announced that the new rate would apply to Rhode Island as well as Massachusetts, application was made at the ticket office here for a ticket under the new rate. The News had not stated that Newport was to have a new rate, only that if the new rate were applied to Rhode Island Newport would undoubtedly receive a reduction as well as the places in Massachusetts which had asked for it.

"THE GIRL IN WAITING."

In spite of her unconventionality, she is an English girl of good family and social connections. Instead of the typical prim, precise and proper creature, she is more like her American cousin, with her love of mischief, spirit of adventure and fondness for making smart speeches. Upon the advent of a step-mother in the family circle, Lilian betakes herself to the country, where she intends to mend her manners, so to speak, to become more lady-like gentle and refined. In attempting to keep her good resolutions she finds herself before long in trying circumstances, out of which she emerges with the determination never to be impetuous again or to have anything more to do with the training of young men.

Among the other characters are Moses Benjamin, the Jewish pawn broker; Lord Harlsmore, a weak young boy, and George Hemmings, who through Lilian's influence becomes more of a man. Lady Harlsmore and Mrs. Hemmings have much to do with the course of events. Mrs. Hemmings is a narrow, self-willed woman, who has kept her son under her thumb until he meets Lilian Turner, when he breaks away from maternal authority and begins to have a little independence of character. As for Lady Harlsmore, it is her diamond tiara which is the cause of the many complications that ensue.

"The Girl in Waiting" is an original tale, enlivened by humor and spicy conversation. The plot thickens so fast that the reader feels like finishing the book at one sitting. The author is Archibald Eyre, while the frontispiece is drawn by George Gray, and the publishers are John W. Luce & Co. In connection with the author, it is said that when the publishers were asked who wrote the book they were about to issue they could not tell his name. They said they were simply in search of a good story, and after reading this book believed they had one. The matter of authorship was secondary, and only when the printers were ready for the title page did they take pains to learn the author's name.

They surely follow mankind's tricks,
And all look pleasant, please.

But no, one human vanity

In fact, 'tis quite the opposite;
We find with tears of rage
That not a blessed one of them
Attains the picture age.

GRANGER'S BRIEF BOOM.

It was a brief boom which Congressman Granger of this state enjoyed as a possible candidate for the chairmanship of the Democratic Congressional committee. It was a compliment to the representative from this district of Rhode Island even to be named for the position, but it was from the first a forlorn hope that he would be given such a prominent place, inasmuch as he comes from a Republican state and political honors do not take that course. It may be considered from any other than a political point of view that such a fact ought to have little or nothing to do with a question of this kind, but as every one familiar with politics knows it does have much to do with such matters and the representative from a state of opposite political belief has very small chance of receiving honors or distinctions from his colleagues.

It was not surprising, therefore, to those familiar with these things that Mr. Granger's boom was such a short one, and it was no reflection upon his ability to fill the position or his popularity with his associates in the lower branch of Congress that it was so short-lived, but simply indicated that the representatives from other states which happen to be politically in accord with the Democratic party stopped to and demanded as their right that some one from a Democratic state should be given this coveted honor. Politicians do not allow many favors to slip from their grasp that can be retained, and so Mr. Granger had to step one side and permit another to receive the position.

PREPAREDNESS HALF THE BATTLE.

The chances of a war with China do not seem as great as they did a few weeks ago, and yet the authorities at Washington are letting no opportunity slip by unimproved to be ready in case such a condition should arise. The hopes of the officials are that no occasion will come for the use of troops and war supplies in the Far East, but they are working on the wise decision that to be forewarned is to be forearmed, and that more than half the struggle, if it comes, will be decided by being prepared for the emergency. With this in view, the government is not only planning to send vessels and troops to China or its vicinity, and supplies for the subsistence of the army and navy forces and for the prosecution of the possible fighting, but has also prepared a definite plan of campaign to be carried out in case the necessity arises. This is a wise measure on the part of the authorities of this country. With such close attention to details we shall be ready for the conflict if it comes and vastly better prepared to prosecute the campaign than if we went into it haphazard and without previous thought. While if no trouble arises the army officials will have had the practice of mapping out the course to be pursued, which will not come amiss in their duties or in case of future difficulties with any other nation.

The universal hope among the people is that there will be no necessity for going to war with China or any other country. We are not so fond of fighting as some nations and prefer to live in peace and concord with all those about us, near or far. But we believe in maintaining our rights, even to the point of fighting, if we are obliged to do that in order to secure or maintain them, and we believe in being so equipped as to be always ready for such an emergency if it comes. Preparedness is more than half the battle if the conflict comes, and also serves to ward off many a war by teaching other nations that there is instant readiness to enter into any sort of conflict that may be forced. It is to be hoped that there will be no war between this nation and China, but by all means we should be ready for one if it must come, and not be taken by surprise.

LEGATION BUILDINGS.

The favorable report on the Longworth bill to spend five million dollars in buying or erecting legation buildings in foreign capitals puts the expenditure upon the seductive ground that it would enable the United States to send abroad the ablest men to represent us, without regard to their fortunes. Our highest diplomatic salaries are $17,500 and many are less. Foreign governments pay much more in salaries or—a curious practice of several of them—they pay nominal salaries and make large allowances for entertaining; it comes to the same thing. Besides this, many of these governments own their legation residences or hire them, so that their ambassadors and ministers have their house rent free.

A man must live like the people with whom he associates and the servants of nations associate with governments and the heads of states and the servants of states that are very liberal in their compensation. We had a minister in Italy some 20 years ago who lived on the upper floor of what we should call an apartment house. He did not care to live at his own expense, and we cannot blame him; but we don't like to have our ministers live like that. When Mr. Reid was ambassador in Paris he paid more than his salary for his house, and he probably goes still further beyond his salary in London, where he has a fine establishment.

Under these circumstances only rich men can be selected for foreign missions. It is very doubtful if poor men will ever secure them, even if their house rent is furnished. We have sent many literary men abroad, and literary men are not millionaires, but the successful ones have acquired considerable money. But even if the diplomatic service is not opened to poor men it would be a matter of justice and good management for the government to provide its representatives in foreign capitals with suitable residences.

HARBOR FORTIFICATIONS.

The President's call for $50,000,000 for the further fortification of our ports, that our war vessels may be free to engage an enemy's fleet instead of being confined to harbor defense, raises the entire question of the relative power of forts and ships. Fortifications are undoubtedly an essential feature of a nation's defenses, but how far they can be trusted to defend harbors while war vessels are off hunting for the enemy's fleet is a question on which military strategists will not unanimously support the President. The argument for a large number of battleships and armored cruisers is that the time to defeat an enemy's ships is before they reach the coast for which they are headed. Coast defense vessels are less expensive than sea-going battleships, and they may be just as good within their limited sphere of action. But the naval authorities under whose direction we are making rapid additions to our fleet that can fight on the high seas have insisted that monitors and other harbor-defense vessels are of comparatively small value because it is essential to defeat the enemy before he reaches the forts.

The President says the Japanese fleet was free to go in search of the Russian because the Japanese ports were so well protected that they could be left alone. But was not the best protection that could be given them the search for and destruction of the Russian vessels? General Grant said the best way to protect Washington was to attack Lee's army. In our Civil war we found that war vessels could run past forts. Some of them might be destroyed; most of them would get past. The Japanese war vessels shelled Port Arthur and the Russian vessels lying in the harbor. The mine fields are useful in closing the entrance to a port, mainly by detaining hostile vessels close under the guns of the forts. But great skill has been developed in destroying torpedoes, and with a clear channel threatening gauntlets have been run with comparative freedom from injury. The naval authorities believe in attacking an enemy before he comes near the coast.

The debate on the Indian appropriation bill, which was concluded in the House of Representatives yesterday, has been a combination of discussion of practically any subject except the bill under debate. Several members have made carlit speeches, one discussed reforms in the fiscal system, advocating more liberality in the loan restriction on national funds; another spoke against federal licenses for pilots as provided in pending legislation, argued in opposition to the establishment of a parcels post, a Massachusetts member gave reasons why immigration should be restricted and made the assertion that two-thirds of the male immigrants come here under labor contracts, and another defended Henry Clay from the charge of being a "stand-patter." There was variety enough for anyone.

The city should go slow in issuing bonds for more sidewalks. The walks are generally good now, with the $150,000 outlay, and such as need attention can probably be easily taken care of out from the annual appropriations. Under present conditions $50,000 is a good deal of money for the city to spend for sidewalks. If that amount were divided among the wards, where would the First ward find room to lay down her proportion? We should not forget that the Thames Street pavement must be provided for at no distant day.

An ingenious theatre manager in Frankfort, Germany, gave the women their choice of their hats or the men; he had all the men seated on one side of the theatre and all the women on the other, whereupon the women immediately agreed to remove their hats and sit with the men. It may have been fondness for the men, and it may have been that the women themselves could not see the stage if there were no chance of looking over or past the heads of the men. There must be some intervals between the hats to enable even the women to enjoy the show.

At a dinner of the Shoe and Leather Association in Milwaukee, Augustus H. Vogel complained that vegetarians were diminishing the demand for meat, and therefore reducing the supply of hides and increasing the cost of leather and shoes. This is improbable; a decrease in the demand for meat should make cattle cheaper and hides and leather should come down. Besides, who is eating less meat, any way?

It was a comparatively small affair which brought about the defeat of the French Cabinet, but the resignation may be of great importance at this time, when the Moroccan conference is still in session.

It is not everybody who would refuse a seat on the United States Supreme Court bench. Senator Knox of Pennsylvania is one of the few who prefer not to wear the ermine.

At last the engagement of King Alfonso of Spain to Princess Ena of Battenberg has been formally made. It has been in the air for some time.

Cranberries are a luxury now, selling in Chicago at $28 a barrel, but few care for cranberries at this season. They will probably be lower by next Thanksgiving.

VERITABLE "HOUSES OF THE CHILDREN."

(Review of Reviews.)

"Les Maisons des Enfants," as they are called, have just been established in Paris, but they are looked upon as the beginning of an immense movement to house, not only the larger families of the poorer classes, but also those of hundreds of thousands of the middle classes whose business call for the presence in the heart of the city of the head of the family.

Before the "Houses of the Children" came into being, such parents might spend day after day wearily walking the streets in search of family accommodations, and almost going down on their knees in vain to janitors and landlords whom nothing could induce to admit a family of children into their "exclusive" and high-priced apartment houses.

Needless to say, this association, and several others recently formed or now forming, backed by philanthropic capital and with the same end in view, do not care for any particular return upon their money so that future citizens be housed in light and airy rooms and their comfort catered to by architect, landlord, and concierge. Branch societies are putting up apartment-houses, also for very large families up to ten and twelve children, with gardens as playgrounds for the little ones. The sites chosen, however, will naturally be a little out of Paris i places where the price of land is not altogether prohibitive. But the fact remains that France is so alive to the "depopulation peril" that some of her foremost citizens are building "Houses of the Children" and positively advertising for tenants with large families only.

The rents, as usual, will hardly pay the expenses of management; and in the new piles now being erected there will be the same generous provision of air and sunshine, with gardens filled with flowers, trees and spacious lawns, so that the little ones may be brought up in close communication with nature. It is highly instructive to call upon certain households in these blocks. One man and his wife were just sitting down to dejeuner with their seven bright-eyed, healthy children. The father earned only $15 a week.—the salary of a girl stenographer in New York,—and yet on this Monsieur S. contrives to feed his family well, clothe them respectably, give them all a good education, and pay his rent with exemplary punctuality.

RESCUING MEN IN A SNOWSLIDE.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.)

Eli Smith is credited with having saved the lives of 25 men at Sheep Camp in the spring of 1898 at the time of the great snowslide on the Dyea trail. It will be recalled that 63 men were killed by the slide, most of them suffocating before rescuers could reach them. Smith was on the trail several miles below the slide. He came up three-quarters of an hour after the tragedy and found the survivors frantically trying to dig the victims out.

"Give me that stick!" said Smith to a man who had a flat hatchlike piece of wood in his hand.

The stick was turned over to Smith, who immediately whittled the end so that he could insert it in his mouth and grasp it firmly with his back teeth. Then he thrust the stick in the snow and held the end in his mouth, apparently listening. He repeated the operation at several points in the slide. Finally he shouted:

"Come! Dig here, quick!"

At a depth of nine feet the rescuers took out three men, unconscious, but alive. These three men recovered and were all right by morning.

In the same manner Smith pointed out other places, which resulted in the locating of many bodies and the uncovering in all of 25 men whose lives were saved.

"Where did you learn that trick," Smith was asked the other day.

"I learned that in Idaho, at Wood River," said he. "The Indians know that trick. I guess a wire would be better than a stick, but they don't keep wire in stock out in the wilds, so Indians always use a stick. You see if a feller is alive you can sort of hear him breathe, or I guess it's more like feeling him breathe. If he is kicking or moving around you can hear him plain. You just put the stick down into the snow two or three feet and you can hear a feller breathing, even if he's 20 feet further down."

A DOG STORY.

(Royal Magazine.)

At 12 o'clock luncheon the little fellow, a Yorkshire terrier, generally receives a few tit-bits, consequently the meal is of considerable importance to him. His master noticed a short while ago that immediately the clock struck 12 he would leave his little basket and show his impatience by whining or even pulling with his teeth at the colonel's trousers. He pondered some time on the dog's sagacity, and came to the conclusion that the little beast actually counted the strokes of the clock. This he tested by the simple experiment of making the clock strike 3 when it should have struck 12. Our little friend lay in his basket at the time, and never stirred. He had counted the strokes, and, though he may have been puzzled, he felt convinced that luncheon time had not yet arrived.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Official Statement Regarding the Peace Dale Strike.

New State Road in Coventry—East Providence Child Run Over by an Auto.

Rowland G. Hazard, president of the Peace Dale Manufacturing Company, at whose mills in the South County village there has been a strike of 100 or more weavers since February 27, last evening issued a statement in which are embodied the concessions which the company feels it can make to the strikers. Mr. Hazard said the company had requested Governor Utter to send officers to Peace Dale to protect men who had been sent down to fill the places of the striking weavers, in case the idle operatives made any opposition to the advent of the "strike breakers." The request to the chief executive was made after the town council of South Kingstown, at a meeting Tuesday afternoon, had refused to appoint special constables for duty in protecting newly hired operatives. The statement made by Mr. Hazard last night was as follows: "The weavers left work when a part of them were running one loom on white worsted warp and filling at 125 picks and one on gray worsted warp and wool filling at 100 picks, as commonly practiced in worsted mills. The company has now offered to run a certain number of looms on strictly single-loom basis, one loom to a weaver, as before; a number on the two fast loom basis with white or light-colored worsted warp and filling in both looms, the remainder to run on two-loom basis at 100 picks for each loom, one all white worsted warp and filling, the other gray worsted warp and wool filling no coarser than 2½ run, the same work as that in other New England mills."

At a special meeting of the Coventry town council a vote was passed accepting a route for the macadam highway which the state is to build through the town to the Connecticut line, the route accepted being the one considered by the town council at its last meeting in opposition to the two previously under consideration. Its acceptance secures for the town three miles of macadam from the State, to which it is not entitled. West Greenwich in securing its apportionment of the state highway desired the macadamization to be pushed through Coventry from a point near the Maple Root Church to Washington, and as this route has been accepted Coventry gains the length between the Maple Root Church and Washington.

As he ran from behind a wagon on Warren avenue in East Providence yesterday afternoon, little Frank Enos, the six-year-old son of Joseph F. Enos, was struck by a large auto touring car and knocked down, the wheels of the heavy machine passing over his nose and bruising his body. The driver, picking up the lad in his arms, carried him into the office of a physician located near by, who found that his nose had been fractured, and besides a bruised face where the wheels had passed over, there were bruises about the body. The driver of the automobile did not give his name, but paid the doctor's bill and departed, saying he would call later. The boy's mother called at the office and took her son home after his injuries were dressed. Witnesses of the accident say that the driver was not to blame, as the boy came out from behind the team so quickly as to give him no chance to stop his machine.

Professor Lester Frank Ward, who ranks among the most distinguished sociologists of the world, is to become a member of the faculty of Brown University. He will assume his duties in the department of social and political science next September, with the title of professor of sociology, and will conduct graduate courses and those dealing with sociological theory. This adjustment will leave the other members of the department more freedom for the development of the courses along lines for which there is pressing need. Professor Ward has received the degrees of A. B., LL. B., A. M. and LL. D. He is a member of the leading scientific societies in America and in Europe, was president of the International Institute of Sociology in 1903, and is now serving as the first president of the American Sociological Society. Bibliography includes about 500 titles under his name. His works have been translated into foreign tongues. Three of them were translated into Russian, but the translation of Dynamic Sociology was not permitted to be circulated and the Polish translation of the same book was suppressed. Dr. Ward has long been connected with the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. He has given extended courses of lectures on sociology at the American School of Sociology, at Chicago University, at Leland Stanford, Jr., University, and at other institutions. Professor Giddings, in seconding Dr. Ward's nomination to the office of president of the American Sociologicnl Society, said: "All sociologists are under a heavy debt of gratitude to him, and their indebtedness to Ward is at least as great as to August Comte and Herbert Spencer."

Edgar W. Marston of New York, a trustee of Brown University, was a visitor at the college yesterday. During the afternoon Mr. Marston, who last spring stated that he would supply funds for a new athletic field house, went to Andrews Field, accompanied by Physical Director F. W. Marvel and C. Butler, a New York architect, who is to be intrusted with the making of the plan for the new field house. Mr. Marston looked over the ground carefully in order to find a suitable spot for the house, but no final location was decided upon. Mr. Marston expects to push the work on the new field house as quickly as possible and it is probable that it will be built before the college year closes. The field house is to be adequate for the needs of the college and will accommodate several athletic teams at once.

Colonel Zenas W. Bliss and his banquet committee are planning to give Lieutenant General Miles a rousing complimentary dinner, following his address in Providence, next Sunday evening, and judging from the responses to invitations already received there will be a gathering of city and state officials, military men and prominent civilians on that occasion numbering fully 100, the number to which the tickets have been limited. The members of the honorary reception committee will be present as hosts, and among the special guests will be Governor Utter, Lieutenant Governor Jackson, the mayors of the five cities, all of whom have received invitations; War Governor William Sprague, Major Charles W. Abbott, Jr., and Dr. W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University, the institution which honored General Miles with an LL. D. in 1903.

Brigadier General Herbert S. Tanner announces that Captain Walter E. Harrington of Company D, First Infantry, has been detailed in charge of rifle practice at the state range at Rumford for the coming season, to succeed Captain Richard LeBaron Bowen, assistant inspector of rifle practice on the brigade staff, who relinquishes his duties at the range after six years' servicl.

Sealed proposals for a steel superstructure to replace the present fixed spans of the Point Street bridge, and the superstructure of the Smithfield Avenue bridge over the Moshassuck river, were opened in the office of the Providence Commissioner of Public Works yesterday. There were eight bidders, and each one bid upon each of the jobs. Mr. Slade had not completed figuring upon the bids when the time came to close the office last evening.

REMARKABLE LIBEL SUIT ABANDONED.

A remarkable libel suit against a New Orleans newspaper has just been abandoned. The trial court's decision that there was no cause for action had been reversed by the supreme court. The newspaper had praised a certain surgeon for his skill. The doctor said that the laudatory article, although written with the kindest intention, was injurious to him, as it placed him before the public in the light of a quack, because reputable medical men never "allow themselves to be advertised before the public." The supreme court, in remanding the case, said: "True, words of praise and congratulation are not actionable. But words of praise and congratulation may—on rare occasions, fortunately—lead to injurious consequences, lose their grace and charm, and become actionable." The court also said: "The physician who, by inference, finds himself classed with quacksalvers will be entitled to a hearing, or, at any rate, should not be turned out of court, unless it appears that he is in error in thus contending."

FEW AUSTRALIANS IN AMERICA.

(New York Sun.)

There are only a few Australians distributed throughout the United States, and their number is so small that in most of the official bulletins they come under the head of "unclassified." There are in New York city less than 500 Australians, and the majority of these are such "in name only," having been born in Australia during the temporary residence of their parents. One such case is that of Mme. Melba, the prima donna, who was born in Melbourne, Australia, in 1866, though her home is in England.

The only city in the country in which there is any considerable number of Australians is San Francisco, in which there are about a thousand. Chicago has some 300, and Oakland, a suburb of San Francisco, 250. Once every year the Australians in New York city assemble for fraternal meeting, and it is found usually that the larger number of those present are traveling Australians.

THE NEWPORT JOURNAL AND WEEKLY NEWS.

NON-SUIT GRANTED.

Decision in the Suit of Lula Battle vs. Margaret Robinson.

Plaintiff Must Prove Disregard of Duty, and Exercise of Due Care Herself.

In the superior court this morning the case of Lula Battle vs. Margaret J. Robinson was taken up and given to the following jury: Samuel W. Hathaway of Tiverton, foreman; Benjamin J. Easton, Daniel D. Donoghue, Harry L. Vickers, of Newport; Ralph E. Dodge of New Shoreham, John M. Hathaway of Portsmouth, James A. Rafferty and Charles N., Goddard of Newport, Benjamin F. Wilkie of Little Compton, Henry G. Douglas of Tiverton, Robert B. Almy of Portsmouth, Henry Durfee of Tiverton.

The jury went to take a view, after which Mr. Mitchell stated the case. It is an action for $5,000 damages for injuries received while employed for defendant, August 3, 1905. Mr. Nolan also appeared for plaintiff and Messrs. Hornsby and Koehne for defendant.

Plaintiff was the first witness, being examined by Mr. Mitchell. She lives in Boston. Went to work for defendant the tenth of last July, taking care of the kitchen, being a "chef-cook." Worked there until August 3, when the accident happened. Went out that evening and came in by a "near way," which she saw others use, from Catherine street. As soon as she was in the gate she felt herself falling, and the next she knew she was in a hole. Could not get out, and called for help. Another of the servants came, and with her assistance plaintiff got out and went to the servants' cottage, where they slept. Plaintiff was hurt. Broke her arm. The hole was only a few steps from the cottage.

There was another entrance, but next day plaintiff found the gate at it was locked with a padlock. There is still another way to another street—Elizabeth street—plaintiff thought. Plaintiff never was told which way to come in or go out of the yard. Never saw the hole or heard of it before. Had been out the other way—to Elizabeth street—before. There was no light near the hole. It was perfectly dark there.

At first plaintiff did not know her arm was broken. She got breakfast and then the arm ached so badly she couldn't wait for some doctor who was in the house to get up, but went out to a doctor and had the arm set. Told Mrs. Robinson about it after that. She said that way was only to be used in case of fire. Plaintiff saw the butler continually use it, and the gardener and many others used it. Her wages have always been from $15 to $10 a week, and she had no trouble to find employment. Since the injury she cannot follow her trade and has earned but $15 since. Has not the power to cut up the big pieces of meat, or use a cleaver—or saw—all necessary to her trade.

Plaintiff went to Dr. Wheatland, who set the arm. Then she had to go home to Boston and there had another doctor, who attended her until December. She suffered much from the injury and still has pains. Has not paid the doctors had nothing to pay—and doesn't know what their bills are.

To Mr. Thornley, plaintiff said this was the second time she had been off the premises. She was sure of that. The other time she went by Elizabeth street. No one ever told her how to go, and she saw others using the way in which was the hole. Did not see the butler climb the fence. Both eyes were dark that night. The "hole," next day, was found to be about four feet deep, with steps—a perfect cellarway, with stone steps. She has worked but three weeks since, at $5 a week. People have wanted her (one place on Beacon street), but she wasn't able to work. She had not had anything to drink, at any place, on the night of the accident. Went only to two homes (mentioned names).

John Fenton Cross of 57 Levin street next testified. He was and is employed at Mrs. Robinson's. He has seen servants pass by the way in question, but could not say this was before the accident, and the question was ruled out and withdrawn. In cross-examination witness was asked if he considered that way a regular entrance. He said he had heard it was not. He did not live on the premises. Had charge of the yard and cleaned it up. He understood the help understood they were forbidden to use it. To Mr. Nolan, witness said Madam Robinson never forbade him going that way. (He had used the way.)

Dr. Marcus F. Wheatland testified. He has been practicing more than 10 years here, having graduated at Howard University, Washington. He saw plaintiff some time in August. She said she had sprained her wrist. Witness put on the X ray and found a fracture of the radius. He took a picture, but not thinking it would amount to anything has not the picture now. He treated her. It was a simple fracture, a painful injury. He took another picture day before yesterday and showed this, and another showing both arms, for comparison. The fracture is at the joint and evidence of it can still be seen.

The arm is somewhat deformed and seems a less useful arm than before. Such accidents leave a weakness for a time, and she has a general weakness in the arm and in the use of the fingers. The jar of using a cleaver would be quite painful to her. It is hard to say whether the arm will ever be as useful as before. It will not be for some time, if ever.

To Mr. Thornley, witness said a compound fracture is the same as a simple one in its effects, after the first risk is passed. This arm is certainly not as strong as it was before the accident.

Mr. Mitchell then read the deposition of a Beacon Street, Boston, physician, who had treated plaintiff at his "office, home and farm," she having been one of the help in his family for a good while. The arm is well except for malformation, loss of power, and pains that will precede storms. All fractures are painful. The arm will be as strong, but not as useful.

The cross-examination showed that the arm had been treated before witness saw it. Malformation almost always results from a fracture like this. As to the treatment before witness saw it, he said it was "a remarkably good job, I could not have done better myself."

Here Mr. Mitchell rested and the jury was sent out. Mr. Thornley spoke. He assumed that there must have been some instruction of defendant to plaintiff to use the way in question. The "hole" is a regular cellar-way—not a recent excavation. The court, looking at a plat, asked counsel questions to get the situation clearly in mind. It was protected by a gate at either side of the cellar entrance. Plaintiff worked there and lived in the yard, the distance being slight. The open path, which plaintiff had used to Elizabeth court, was safe and plaintiff knew it. She knew nothing about the one from which she fell. An employer is not required to construct every part of his premises so that no one can receive any injury. This place was protected by gates, provided with a means of fastening them. Mr. Thornley claimed that plaintiff took the risk on herself in going by a way other than the path known to be safe. He quoted several decisions favorable to this view.

Mr. Mitchell replied. He claimed that plaintiff had proved every material allegation of the declaration, and as the declaration was not demurred to the case was made out. Plaintiff had been but recently employed. Gates do not protect, unless securely fastened. The gate was open. Servants used the way and plaintiff had a right to presume it was safe. That she used the other path once or twice, it being a nearer way to the place where she was then going does not forbid her using the one in question. She should have been warned, if it was dangerous. Defendant knew it was dangerous and should have warned plaintiff, as she did others. That gate at Cutherine street was really inviting, and plaintiff took it. Mr. Mitchell referred to numerous decisions. There was nothing to indicate to plaintiff that she should not take this path. She was "turned loose" on the premises and had a right to suppose them safe.

The court, in deciding, said that the law is well settled that plaintiff must prove disregard of a duty owed to the one claiming damages and that claimant was exercising due care. The decision in the case of McCann vs. Atlantic Mills Company seems to govern this case. Plaintiff in this case seems not to have used due care. She returned about midnight, and took a short cut. She knew another way that was safe, but to make a short cut took a strange way at midnight in the dark. That was not exercising due care. The motion for a non-suit is granted and exception to this ruling is noted.

The jury was called in and excused for the day, and at 12:29 the court adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Friday.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The volunteer firemen held their monthly practice last evening, the engine company and hose No. 1 making a run to the ferry, about a half mile from their station.

Mrs. D. W. Arnold left today to visit Mrs. W. H. Davison of Pawtucket, who is quite ill.

Steamer Leander Wilcox landed about 20 tons of fertilizer on Knowles's wharf this morning, for Mr. A. H. Peckham.

The paymaster and clerk made their monthly visit to Fort Greble yesterday afternoon.

Conanicut Grange, No. 21, held a meeting last evening in the town hall. Several candidates were initiated and arrangements were made for a turkey supper to be given next week.

The funeral of Miss Sarah A. Weeden was held at 1 o'clock today at the Weeden homestead, a number of people from out of town attending. Messrs. J. J. Watson, George H. Carr, C. A. Clarke and E. N. Tefft were bearers, the burial being in Cedar cemetery. Miss Weeden was a native of Jamestown, but during the larger part of her life resided in Providence, and was the last surviving child of the late William Augustus and Catherine Weeden. She was sister of the late William A., George Edward, George Wager, Peter C., Alice C. and Louise Weeden. Her father owned and improved for many years the farm now covered by Conanicut Park, moving to Providence when the farm was sold. Miss Weeden made that city her home until the death of her sister Louise, after which she returned to Jamestown to reside with her nieces, Miss Lucy A. Weeden and Mrs. W. A. Barber, at whose home she died in the seventy-eighth year of her age.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAPTURED.

Yesterday in Fall River Officer George Ferguson, of the Fall River police, had across Clarence Bates, who was hoarding at 911 Warren street in that city. Bates showed signs of nervousness when approached and denied that he was a deserter, as the officer supposed from what he had seen. He was not able to show any papers entitling him to leave, so the officer took him in. This was not done without a struggle, during which it was necessary for the officer to use his club. Bates finally reached the guard house at Fort Adams last night, looking considerably the worse for his encounter. He was at once recognized as an escaped prisoner.

Last September, while Bates was serving a sentence of ten months, to be followed by dishonorable discharge, he escaped from a working detail on the west shore of the fort, by crawling along the beach and thus escaping the lone sentry who had charge of the party. It was thought at the time that the prisoner had assistance in getting away, for though the alarm was at once given and every effort made to prevent the escaped prisoner from leaving the vicinity of the fort nothing was seen of him. The officers at the fort were quite anxious to recover the escaped prisoner and their wishes were finally met when Officer Ferguson spotted him in Fall River. It will probably be quite a while before Bates is again at liberty.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—L. F. J. O'Connor has rented for Edward O'Hara his cottage at 7 Bachelder's court to James Ward.

—A carload of new furniture arrived for the Perry House today. Ex-Congressman Hall has taken apartments at the hotel.

—Herbert L. Dyer has rented the farm on Ocean avenue, belonging to H. V. R. Kennedy and others and known as the Price's Neck Farm, to Edward Stephen Rawson.

—Among United States Hotel arrivals are J. E. Worthington, G. W. Dennett and A. O. Drake of Boston; R. J. Reid of Franklin, I. J. Champlin of New London and T. W. Baker of New York.

—A. O. D. Taylor has rented for John Boudry the premises at 21 Dearborn street to J. Hole of New York. Mr. Taylor has also rented the upper half of the house at 81 Second street to Robert P. Peckham.

—John E. Kelly has sold to Elizabeth Bone the estate bounded east, 51 feet, on a way leading from Harrison avenue; south, 92 feet, on the estate of J. A. C. Stacy; west, 50 feet, on land of A. M. Albro and E. M. Petzka, and north, 55 feet, on land of Edward M. Petzka.

—Rear Admiral Thomas Camp, No. 3, Veterans of the Spanish-American war, at its meeting tonight is to admit 11 recruits. The camp has been started with a membership comprising largely men now in the active service, but as the recruiting goes on men from civilian life who are eligible are being taken and ere long it is anticipated that this camp will be quite a formidable organization.

—There was a slight fall of light rain last night and it looked for a while as though a storm were due, but this morning there was nothing to suggest this view. On the contrary, it looked more like spring than ever, and felt decidedly uncomfortable with an overcoat about noon on the streets, when the temperature was 43 and the wind was northwest. It was not the northwest wind which Newport felt a short while ago.

CHINESE WEAPONS.

Remarkable Set of Artistic But Fiendish-Looking Spearheads Received by Dr. Beck.

Dr. Horace P. Beck has just received a case of Chinese weapons which is exciting considerable attention among the few who have been privileged to view them. The collection numbers just half a hundred pieces, gathered during the Boxer uprising by Lieutenant William D. Brotherton, U. S. N., who knowing of Dr. Beck's inclination to collect such articles offered them to him. The offer was promptly accepted, but now that they have arrived and are so numerous it promises to be quite a task to arrange them.

They are practically all spearheads, with the poles cut off for shipment. There are no duplicates and in form they vary greatly, not a few being fiercely ugly-looking affairs when one thinks of them as weapons, though as artistically wrought steel and brass they are remarkable. They are far from the crude displays of workmanship which some imagine the Chinese weapons to have been after reading accounts of the battles with the allied forces. They are of course sculptured of the planets designating the corps to which they belong, but the present owner is in hopes of ultimately arranging them so that they will again be seen in their former gorgeousness. With the collection quite a battalion of specimens could be fitted out, and some say the arsenals of China cannot show finer spearheads than some of those in this collection, not a few of which are ornamented with carved dragons in brass or inlaid with brass and copper.

TWO FUNERALS.

The funeral of John H. Murphy was held this morning from St. Joseph's Church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Father Mahon, assisted by Fathers Doran and Smith. At the close of the funeral service Miss Nora Coffey sang "Calvary." There was a large attendance of friends and relatives, practically every man of the old force who could be excused from the Torpedo Station being present to pay the last token of respect to one whom all liked. Commander Gleaves and Lieutenant Cone of the Torpedo Station also attended. The interment was at St. Columba cemetery, by carriage.

The bearers, all from the Torpedo Station force, were James Brennan, Jeremiah Maloney, Michael F. O'Sullivan, William J. Williams, J. A. Menzies and J. H. Brown.

The deceased had been for many years employed at the Torpedo Station and acted as messenger for commandant and other commandant in a way which made all who came in touch with him feel that he was a friend. This fact was well shown this morning, when the men from the station turned out to the funeral. Had Commandant Gleaves been able to spare more of the old-time force the number would have been large and as it was all who could attend without crippling the work were there. There were a number of handsome floral tributes.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jones took place at St. Mary's Church this morning, three priests officiating. There was a wealth of floral tributes, filling two carriages, and the church was crowded. A solemn high requiem mass was celebrated. In the congregation were many of the leading Catholics of Newport, despite the fact that at the same hour the funeral of an equally prominent Catholic was being held at Queen sister church, St. Joseph's. The interment was at St. Columba's Cemetery.

SCHWAB SLIGHTLY IMPROVED.

Resting Comfortably and Says He is Feeling "Fine."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—The Rock Island train, on which Charles M. Schwab was due to arrive in Kansas City at 6:50 this morning, was reported nine hours late.

A message received at the general offices of the Rock Island at Topeka said that Mr. Schwab's condition was slightly improved this morning.

Mr. Schwab's train passed through Hutchinson a few minutes after 8 o'clock this morning. A second despatch received in Kansas City from that point stated Mr. Schwab as saying: "I am feeling fine."

It was stated that he was resting comfortably, and was feeling better than at any time in the past two days.

According to the present arrangements, Mr. Schwab and his party will remain in Kansas City when they arrive until 10 o'clock tonight. His private car "Loretta" will be attached to the regular Rock Island train for St. Louis leaving Kansas City at that hour.

MISS ANTHONY VERY WEAK.

Passed Fairly Good Night and Suffered No Pain.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 8.—Reports from the bedside of Susan B. Anthony, who is ill of pneumonia, are not quite so encouraging today. Dr. Sherman Hicker, her physician, said at noon today:

"Miss Anthony spent a fairly good night, but was more restless and slept less soundly than on the previous night, though she suffered no pain to speak of. However, we do not feel entirely safe because of her great weakness."

Dr. Hicker's tone indicated that she held grave doubts of Miss Anthony's recovery.

To Take Harper's Place.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Robert Francis Harper, brother of the late President William R. Harper of the University of Chicago, has been appointed by the trustees of the university as acting head of the department of semitic languages and literature, left vacant by the death of President Harper.

DOES NOT AFFECT POLICE QUESTION.

tion finally is to select an inspector general of police from Switzerland or Holland. The inspector general is to have his headquarters at Casablanca on the Atlantic coast, and is to command the Franco-Spanish police at the other ports.

The Moroccan plan makes the sultan supreme, and asks that all the powers participate in the organization of the police. The French plan, as heretofore outlined, establishes Franco-Spanish police at eight of the leading ports. The foregoing plans are being considered.

The Austro-German plan provides a Franco Spanish police, but divides them in different ports and places them under a neutral general. The French delegates declare that the latter condition is unacceptable. However, the presentation of the plans brings the contestants much closer together.

An official note issued at the close of the day's session reads as follows:

"Herr Von Radowitz, chief of the German mission, referring to the statements made by the Russian, French and Spanish delegates at the last session of the conference, said that the German government does not object to the organization of the Moroccan police by France and Spain at the ports open to commerce, under proper guarantees assuring economic liberty."

The conference adjourned until Sunday night, in order to permit the delegates to study the police projects.

The official statement made by Herr Von Radowitz today appears to assure an agreement.

The presentation of the French plan by M. Revoil, head of the French delegation, followed the receipt of a telegram from M. Rouvier, stating that the resignation of the cabinet left the previous instructions to the delegates operative.

TO TOUCH INTERNAL POLITICS.

Germany Thinks Crisis Will Not Affect Moroccan Question.

BERLIN, March 8.—The fall of the Rouvier ministry is now regarded in Berlin as affecting only the internal politics of France, and as not likely to change the relations between Germany and France or render more difficult an agreement on the subject of Morocco.

Vatican Interested in French Cabinet Crisis.

ROME, March 8.—The Vatican authorities received throughout the night telegrams from France regarding the cabinet crisis, in which the Pope and papal secretary, Merry Del Val, were most interested. Although it was admitted that it was difficult to determine whether the issue would be a victory for the holy see or the inauguration of an even stronger anti-Catholic regime in France.

BURIED FISHERMEN'S HUTS.

Many Killed and Injured in Snow Avalanche at Lofoten Islands.

TRONDHJEM, Norway, March 8.—A snow avalanche at the Lofoten Islands yesterday buried a number of fishermen's huts. Rescuers extricated 21 dead and 39 injured.

AMMUNITION AND RIFLES.

Found in Quarters of Chinese Crew on Pacific Mail Steamer.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Examiner today says: "Twenty-two modern rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition were seized yesterday in the quarters of the Chinese crew on Pacific Mail steamer Manchuria, scheduled to sail for the Orient this afternoon. The company's officials thereupon ordered it is said, a thorough search of the vessel, and this resulted in two more boxes of rifles being found in the room of one of the assistant engineers. The engineer and the Chinese were questioned, and it was found that the guns had been purchased in this city, by the engineers and smuggled aboard the vessel. Nothing is known as to how long the smuggling of this character of goods has been going on, or how many rifles have been sent in this way to China.

sented by President Morton and Actuary Joel C. Van Cise. Mr. Morton will speak briefly on the subject of insurance company investments, and it is understood that he will offer some decided objections to the recommendations of the Armstrong committee.

Vice President and Actuary McClintock of the Mutual will address the legislature on section 98 of the Armstrong report, which deals largely with the limitation of expenses.

Henry W. Taft, of the law firm of Strong & Cadwalder, will represent the Mutual as special counsel, and will probably make the principal argument for that company.

With Alexander E. Orr, president of the New York Life, will be Vice President Kingsley, a son-in-law of the late John A. McCall; Actuary Rufus W. Weeks and James W. McIntosh of the company's law department. President Orr will confine his brief address to the general situation, leaving the chief address for William D. Houlhower.

FOUND ABDUCTED GIRL.

Party of New York Chinamen Search Providence Colony.

SALARY LAW CONSTITUTIONAL.

Unanimous Decision of Supreme Court of Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 8.—The supreme court of the state has handed down a decision on the important case dealing with the salaries of the supreme and superior court judges of Connecticut. This was an action seeking to enjoin the state controller and state treasurer against drawing and paying certain orders in pursuance of legislation claimed to be unconstitutional.

The decision declares the salary law constitutional, the opinion being an unanimous one. At the outset there was a protest that the bill was unconstitutional, and the people's cause was taken up by Senator Patrick McGovern of Hartford. The constitution says:

"Neither the General Assembly, nor any county, ... shall have power to pay or grant any extra compensation to any public officer, or increase the compensation of any public officer or employe, to take effect during the continuance in office of any person whose salary might be increased thereby, or increase the pay or compensation of any public contractor above the amount specified in the contract."

The supreme court judges find that there is no limitation on clearly granted powers of legislation. The increase in salary granted the judges of that tribunal and the superior court was not large.

Senator Patrick McGovern, the plaintiff in the judge's salary suit, says he is not satisfied with the decision, and will consult with counsel to ascertain if it be possible to carry the matter to the United States Supreme Court.

ELEVATOR COMPANIES SUED.

News Causes Sensation in California and Through the West.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The news of the filing of a suit by the United States government against a number of elevator companies has caused a sensation in California and the West, this being the first legal proceeding of the kind ever instituted out here.

United States District Attorney Robert Devlin, who brought the suit, in discussing the action said last night: "The complaint filed yesterday is against the Otis Elevator Company and 30 other defendants, who are alleged to be in one concern and operating contrary to the provisions of the Sherman act. The complaint was drawn up by me, but is signed by Attorney General Moody, all such actions originating at Washington.

"The action is based upon affidavits of men who were formerly in the combine and who state that while the defendants to the action are apparently separate concerns they in reality are all under control of the Otis Elevator Company. The effect of this pooling of interests is to enhance prices and restrict trade with the view to controlling all the elevator business on the Pacific coast, with the probability that this is but a branch of a gigantic trust that controls the elevator output all over the United States. Such a combination is against the provisions of the Sherman law, and we believe that we have ample evidence against the trust to make out a clear case when it comes to trial."

"This suit has been carefully prepared and will be pushed vigorously. In every phase of it the attorney general has been consulted, and I regard the case as clear and strong against all the defendants."

NEW FREIGHTER DOROTHY.

The iron freight steamer Dorothy, Captain W. C. White, which has just been added to the Enterprise Transportation Company's line, arrived at Fall River Tuesday night with 500 bales of cotton. The Dorothy is 150 feet long, 27 feet in width and 22 feet deep. She draws 16 feet of water when loaded to her capacity of 800 tons. She is equipped with a triple expansion engine, has a speed of ten miles an hour and can make a good passage in any weather. Captain White hails from Norfolk, Va., and has been in Fall River before in the coaling trade.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Benjamin Greene. There was a good attendance of the members and an interesting session. After the reading of the quarterly report by the secretary, Mrs. Alfred H. Borden, a letter in the Outlook from the state president, Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingstone, was read. Mrs. George A. Faulkner read an account of "Shang Bailey," written by Rev. Mr. Daniels of this town. It was voted to request the senator from Portsmouth, Mr. Elbridge L. Stoddard, and Representative Henry C. Anthony to use their influence in favor of the "pure food" bill. The Neal Dow memorial and Thanksgiving service will be held March 20, at the home of Mr. Isaac B. Macomber.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church had a pleasant meeting Wednesday afternoon and evening at the parsonage. Thirty persons took supper, the guests of honor being Presiding Elder A. J. Coultas, Rev. Charles H. Ewer and Mrs. Ewer and Rev. Mr. Daniels. Quarterly Conference was held in the vestry of the church, those not officially connected with it remained at the parsonage, making the social part of the program enjoyable.

Rev. A. J. Coultas was guest while here of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland S. Chase.

Mrs. John T. Gardner entertained a number of friends Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva T. Ford of Pawtucket are spending a few days in town.

Mrs. Helen DeBlois of Newport returned home Wednesday after a visit of several days to her mother, Mrs. Hazard.

The service Saturday afternoon at St. Mary's is especially for children but older people are also invited.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Samuel Reed has returned from a visit to Taunton.

—Lieutenant Colonel Willard has gone to Chicago on a business trip.

—Rev. John B. Diman will be the preacher at Kay Chapel this evening.

—Rev. Walter Lowrie preached last evening at Christ Church, Providence.

—Mr. James Andrews Swan improves daily and it is thought he is on the road to recovery.

—Mrs. Eugene Hartmann has returned from Washington and taken a house on Prospect Hill street.

Boys are gathering outdoor dandelions, good-sized lots being seen for sale; they found a ready sale.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, Miss Charlotte J. Baldwin and Miss Edith Parker Deacon will sail for Europe next week.

—The report that Mrs. Perry Belmont is seriously ill in Washington is incorrect and probably was based upon her illness of a week ago, when she was confined to her home with an attack of grip. She has entirely recovered and attended a dinner party at the capital this week.

—Lighter Archer arrived this morning with a cargo of timber for the new car barn on Vernon avenue.

—Ex-Commodore Gerry and family have abandoned their proposed trip south and will go abroad instead.

—Major Lord, the army paymaster for this section, was here yesterday and paid the soldiers at Forts Adams and Greble.

—Superintendent Lull will address the teachers of Westerly at their monthly meeting this afternoon, his subject being "For Citizenship."

—Mrs. John Jacob Astor, having received assurances from Philadelphia that her father, Mr. Edward S. Willing, is improving, has gone to Aiken, S. C.

—Professor Poland of Brown University will lecture before the Current Topics Club next Wednesday on "Pompeii," illustrated.

—Two of the guns which were in the fire at the old gymnasium building at the Training Station have been shipped to the gun factory at Washington.

—Those dealers who had sleigh runners for their delivery wagons are stowing them away. Plows seem more suitable for this season, and they are not snow plows.

—Bishop McVickar will make his official visit to St. George's Church Sunday morning next, when he will administer the rite of confirmation at the 10:45 service.

—The windows on the old Second Baptist Church are being covered with wire screen to protect them, and other work for the permanent closing of the edifice is being done.

Steamer City of Lowell arrived last night about 10:20 from New London and tied up at the repair shop for an overhauling. Things are "humming" at the repair shop.

—Rev. B. F. Simon, formerly pastor at Portsmouth, has been elected president of the Ministers' Union of the East Maine Methodist Episcopal Conference, just formed at Bangor, Me.

—Lieutenant Colonel John A. Lundeen, formerly at Fort Greble and now inspector general, has been appointed a member of the examining board at the Presidio, San Francisco.

—The Men's Association of the First Presbyterian Church will have a social evening in the chapel Tuesday evening next. Invitations are being sent to all members of the church and congregation.

—Nantucket South Shoals lightship No. 66, which has been undergoing repairs at New Bedford, was expected to leave for her station today. Before No. 66 was taken off the station she was reported to be in a dangerous condition and since she reached New Bedford she has been in a more dangerous position, as the ways broke while she was being hauled out.

—Miss Leary is "at home" on Tuesdays during Lent, except Holy Week, at her new home in New York, but will have no music until after Easter. The Bellevue Sewing and Knitting Class will meet with Miss Leary each Thursday morning until late in the spring. The garments made during these meetings will be distributed among the needy patients at Bellevue Hospital.

—Chief, the old fire horse of Hose 5, is off duty, and probably permanently, as he seems to have passed his days of usefulness as a fire horse. His first run was to the DeBlois barn fire in Middletown, years ago, which proved a hard one, and the same night he had to go to a fire on the Bush estate on Broadway, a pretty strenuous breaking in for a green horse. It is probable that he will be replaced by a pair of horses.

—Captain Champion has joined his two houses on Kinsley's wharf so that they now form one double house. He has arranged to move into the one formerly owned by Mrs. Maitland, which is next to the water and therefore more suitable for his business, and has put in a wide set of steps so that there will be no doubt on the part of visitors where the headquarters for launches is.

—The two local Grand Army Posts propose to have a campfire during the coming session of the New England Southern Methodist Episcopal Conference, for the veterans and sons of veterans who attend the Conference. These campfires have been held elsewhere where the Conference has met and have proved successful, as there are many Grand Army men and Sons of Veterans in attendance.

—The Maud Hillman Company will play an engagement in repertoire at the Opera House next week, except Tuesday evening, when Robert Edeson will present "Strongheart." Miss Hillman is well known in Newport, where she has played several times, and this season is said to have an unusually strong company. The vaudeville features are good, the Lewiston Journal saying: "The vaudeville is of the most pleasing seen here this season."

—At the meeting of the Sunday School workers of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Newport, Monday evening next in the guild room of St. George's Church, Rev. Lester Bradner, Jr., Ph. D., of Providence and Rev. William Pressey of Ashton are to speak. The diocesan Sunday School exhibit will be displayed during the evening, and after the meeting light refreshments will be served by the teachers of St. George's Sunday School.

WRIGHT & HAY TEST.

Sold Hyomei for Years and Know it Will Cure Catarrh.

Wright & Hay have given Hyomei a most thorough and remarkable test. For a long time they have offered to refund the money to any purchaser of Hyomei, if it failed to benefit.

The remedy has made so many cures among their customers that they have urged its use in the most chronic cases of catarrh.

Breathed for a few minutes four times a day, through the inhaler that comes with every outfit, it soothes the irritated mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs, kills the catarrhal germs, and restores complete health. Its healing, antiseptic ... to health.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs only $1, and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the pocket or purse, and will last a lifetime, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. If this is not sufficient for a complete cure, additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents.

Compare this small expense with prices charged by specialists, and remember, too, if Hyomei does not cure, Wright & Hay will return your money.

BIG $40,000,000 DEAL.

Behind Pending Sale of the John R. Walsh Railroads.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Inter-Ocean today says: A $40,000,000 railroad deal, embracing extensive elevation plans, a new Chicago-St. Louis connection, the reorganization of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad Company, and the possible transfer of the Pennsylvania systems terminal to the Grand Central depot, is now said to be behind the pending sale of the John R. Walsh railroads.

The tentative plans in the big deal, it was stated last night, contemplate the elevation of the terminal railroad's tracks within the city limits without further delay, and the subsequent apportioning of the Walsh coast and quarry properties among at least three large trunk line systems.

It was learned that a conference at which the negotiations were wound up was held at the residence of John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, who represents the clearing house committee in the disposal of the Walsh properties. This conference lasted until a late hour last night. Just what transpired at Mr. Mitchell's residence could not be learned authoritatively. It was reported, however, that an agreement was virtually entered into, and that the binding of the bargain may not be delayed beyond this afternoon. The only delays that might follow, it was stated by a representative of the Clearing House Association, would be natural ones, occasioned by the signing up of the voluminous documents. It was officially stated that no hitch has occurred in the negotiations.

The Chicago Southern railroad, one of the Walsh lines that can be completed in three months, is the road that furnishes the key to the community of interests plan which has brought the big railroad interests together.

The strategic importance of this line was quickly recognized by the Vanderbilt people, the Pennsylvania interests and the Moore company, especially the Chicago & Eastern Illinois road and prompted these three large interests to enter into the syndicate agreement for joint operation of the new road in the event of the purchase being made.

CALLS FOR OVER $250,000.

Overseer Voliva of Zion City Appeals to Followers of Dowie.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Picturing a gloomy financial situation and recognizing a crisis, Overseer Voliva called upon the residents of Zion City last night for over $250,000 to save the community from the money lenders, and thus to relieve the present pressure and put the industries on a paying basis. As security he promised the people first mortgages on the lace factory and the printing house.

He called upon ministers to give up their salaries, he asked clerks and laborers to work for $2.50 a week, and upbraided the followers of Dr. Dowie for wearing jewelry and gaudy clothes.

"Accept in pay just enough to provide for living expenses," was his urgent request, he himself declaring he was willing to live on 25 cents a week if possible thus to keep soul and body together.

CRABS HUNT RABBITS.

[Good News.]

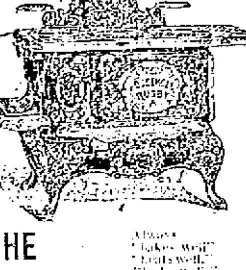

On a property where the rabbit shooting was strictly preserved, upon the southern coast of England, a boy was caught with two dead rabbits in his possession, and nothing that would account for their decease. A search of his pocket revealed nothing but two live crabs of small dimensions, the end of a candle and a box of matches. Under promise of release the urchin was persuaded to disclose his method of procedure. First he selected a likely burrow, and then stripped off his clothes, putting his coat over one hole, his trousers over another and his shirt over the third. He lit the candle and dropped a little grease upon the crab's back, and stuck the lighted candle thereon, and then put the crab at an unoccupied opening. Straightway the frightened torchbearer fled sideways into the darkness and explored the innermost depths, while the boy, expectant as a terrier, awaited events outside. Presently a rabbit bolted into the coat; as it did so that boy was after it like a shot, and boy, rabbit and coat all rolled over together, the boy rising from the fray with the rabbit in his clutches.

How's Your Hair?

Wm. H. Cotton Announces That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newport that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith avenue, Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or any scalp troubles try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by WM. H. COTTON, 226 Thames street. Price, 50 cents.

TO REMEDY THE ATHLETIC EVIL.

the communication at a meeting of the faculty March 6, the faculty body having approved these sections of the report made by the faculty committee on athletics, consisting of Professors Edmund D. B. Delabarre, Courtney Langdon, Albert K. Potter, George W. Benedict and Frederick W. Marvel. In part the following communication was submitted to the students:

"That intercollegiate athletic contests as at present conducted are attended by evils demanding immediate remedy is a conviction that has forced itself recently on all our educational institutions. Exaggeration of the importance of athletics, systematic evasion of rules of eligibility, of the importance of athletics, secret inducements in money or its equivalent, excessive luxury, extravagance and often mismanagement in the use of funds, frequent discourtesy, unfairness and brutality in the conduct of games—these are evils apparently characteristic of intercollegiate athletics everywhere.

"For several years this faculty has sought, through the intercollegiate conference on athletics and otherwise, to devise by intercollegiate agreement some effective plan for dealing with these evils. Having failed in this endeavor and earnestly desiring to make possible the continuance of these contests for the good there is in them, it has declined to take independent action along lines in some respects radically different from those in favor elsewhere.

"The faculty has decided to adopt a set of regulations subject to such revisions as circumstances may seem to require, as follows:

"1—The appointment, subject to the approval of the corporation, of a supervisor of athletics, among whose duties shall be the exclusions from teams of men who are physically unfit, control of finances, supervision of the work of managers and of coaching and training, and the maintenance of proper standards of play and conduct.

"2—Limitation of the absence allowed for athletic purposes to a number not exceeding that which any student may take without being required to account for them.

"3—The exclusion of all students who have entrance conditions, and of all who have deficiencies amounting to more than four hours for the preceding term, or more than nine hours for all previous terms.

"4—The exclusion of all students in their first year of residence and of graduate students.

"5—The retention in the hands of the faculty of the power and obligation imposed upon it by the corporation to make such modifications in the future as the interests of the university may seem to require.

"Subject to the restrictions enumerated above, the faculty hereby entrusts to the students the power to demand and an obligation to enforce the rules of organization, of eligibility and of play, under which their contests shall be conducted. The only further considerations it imposes are that the first set of rules passed by them shall be submitted to the faculty for approval; that no change in existing rules or in rules subsequently adopted shall go into effect until the beginning of the academic year following their adoption; and that a copy of every change in these rules shall be filed with the secretary of the faculty as soon as it is adopted.

"The faculty is convinced that upon the success or failure of this plan in providing a remedy for existing evils must depend the continuance or the abolition of intercollegiate athletics."

Following the reading of the faculty communication the students listened to speeches by President W. H. P. Faunce, and Dean Alexander Meiklejohn, in which a fuller explanation of the rules was given. It is expected that the students will meet tomorrow to take action upon the communication of the faculty, and if the communication is accepted an athletic committee will soon be appointed to formulate such changes in the present rules as they deem advisable. The question of summer ball playing is conceded to be the question of chief importance to be decided.

EXAMINATION TO BE THOROUGH.

Joseph H. Choate a New Attorney of Mutual Life Committee.

NEW YORK, March 8.—It was officially announced at the offices of the Mutual Life Insurance Company yesterday that Joseph H. Choate had accepted the position of attorney to the Mutual's self-investigating committee recently vacated by James B. Dill and others when Stuyvesant Fish left the committee. It is understood that Mr. Choate insisted on assurances that the investigation would be thorough in every line of the company's affairs, and that he would be absolutely untrammeled in his work as counsel.

There was some doubt in Mr. Choate's mind as to the propriety of his accepting a retainer from the committee and acting as counsel for the company in the McCurdy and Raymond & Co.'s suits at the same time. The members of the committee, it is said, assured him that his relations with the company would not interfere in the least with his work for the committee.

It is thought likely that a third member to take the place left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Fish will be named in a few days.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the newly organized international policy holders' committee, was in Boston yesterday. It is said that he had a talk with Thomas W. Lawson and that Lawson agreed to sever himself entirely from the movement which he has been organizing against the Mutual Life and turn his proxies over to the new committee. The personnel of the Fish committee will be announced in a few days.

MUTINY ON BOARD STEAMER.

Firemen and Officers Have Pistol Fight at Brooklyn Dock.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A mutiny in which one life was lost occurred today on board steamer Massachusetts, which was lying at her dock in Brooklyn. James Slocum, a fireman, was killed during a revolver fight on the steamer's decks, in which the steamer's firemen were ranged on one side and opposing them were the ship's officers and members of the crew. Sounds of the fighting caused a reserve of police to be hurried to the steamer, but the firemen, who had started the trouble, had been driven into submission before the police arrived. Six members of the crew were arrested, as were also First Officer Albert J. Evans and Fourth Officer Elmer H. Kerwin. All were held as witnesses. Kerwin's home is in Baltimore, Md. The mutiny had been brewing, according to the officers of the Massachusetts, ever since the steamer left Cardiff, Wales, February 5. The firemen were the chief disturbers, it was alleged, making continual complaints about their food. The crew, however, sides with the officers. During the voyage from Cardiff there were almost daily fist fights on the steamer, all growing out of the surly tempers of the two opposing factions. The wrangling continued after the Massachusetts docked in Brooklyn several days ago. Some of the firemen spent last night in the city, and the fatal quarrel began immediately upon their return to the vessel today. The Massachusetts was expected to sail today for San Francisco.

SHIPWRECKED SAILORS SAVED.

Had Been Without Food or Water Four Days Off Fire Island.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Captain Henry Dodge of Portland, Me., and eight men, the crew of three-masted schooner Eliza J. Pendleton, owned by Pendleton Bros., New York, were put ashore at Elizabethport, N. J., yesterday, by schooner Anna R. Bishop. They told of the suffering they underwent after being wrecked. The crew was rescued from the Pendleton 200 miles southeast of Fire Island March 2, after being nearly four days without food or water.

The Pendleton was on her way from Georgetown, S. C., to Bridgeport, Conn., with a cargo of lumber, when she was struck by a gale February 27. For hours she withstood the blow, but late that day it seemed as if she had burst, so fast did the water pour into her.

Captain Dodge was struck by a wave, hurled against a piece of lumber and severely injured. Toward evening on March 2 the Bishop sighted the Pendleton, then almost completely submerged. A boat was launched and manned by the steward, Howard Nelson, and two sailors, who rowed alongside at the risk of their lives. Captain Dodge had to be helped aboard. So had the negro cook and the mate, who had temporarily lost his mind from the privations he had endured. The vessel had been prevented from sinking by her cargo of lumber. When abandoned March 2 she was still afloat.

Three-masted schooner Eliza J. Pendleton was built at Belfast, Me., in 1891, and hailed from that port. She registered 672 tons net, was 130 feet in length, 35 feet in breadth and 17 feet deep.

RUN DOWN BY MONTREAL FLYER.

Passenger Train Which Was Held Up by Freight Wreck.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, March 8.—Three deaths have followed the wreck of the local passenger train on the Delaware & Hudson railroad bound from Rutland, Vt., for Troy, which while held up by a freight wreck near the local station was run down by the Montreal flyer, south bound, last night. This morning at the Saratoga hospital, to which the more seriously injured were removed, the following list of dead and injured was given to the Associated Press:

The dead: Mrs. Charles Esmond, 40 years, Gansevort; Gertrude Esmond, her daughter, aged 16½ years; Frank A. Sindecuse, a travelling salesman of Buffalo.

Seriously injured: Frank Cardes of Albany. The condition of Cardes was unchanged this morning, with about even chances of recovery.

Frank Tobe of Albany, Nelson M. Varney of Sandy Hill and Berton B. Rowney of Saratoga, who were less seriously injured and who were removed to their homes or homes of friends, will, it is expected, recover.

Mrs. Esmond died at 2:15 o'clock this morning. Her daughter survived her injuries but a few moments. Mr. Sindecuse, whose leg was severed in the wreck, died during the night.

ITALIANS KILLED AND INJURED.

Engine Crashes into Work Train Which Was Carrying Laborers.

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 8.—A milk train on the Pennsylvania railroad, near Radebaugh, today crashed into a work train on which were about 70 Italian laborers, employed on a new pipe line. Three of the men were killed and 35 others injured, several of whom will die. The injured were brought to the hospital in this city, but being foreigners and known only by number their names could not be ascertained. The work train had just backed out on the main line when the engine came upon it.

Judge Brown's Resignation Accepted.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Roosevelt has accepted the resignation of Associate Justice Brown of the United States Supreme Court. Justice Brown tendered his resignation to the President on the second instant, that being his seventieth birthday. No indication yet is given of Justice Brown's successor.

DESERT CONVERTED INTO A SEA.

California Company Taps the Colorado River and Gets More Water Than Is Wanted.

[Boston Globe.]

The transformation of southern California from desert to garden has been one of the miracles of the Golden state, but a greater is now being enacted. A section of the desert nearly 60 miles long and half as wide has been converted into a great inland sea.

Overland passengers on the Southern Pacific exclaim with wonder when they behold on leaving Imperial Junction this shimmering sea stretching eastward as far as the eye can reach. No more unlikely place for such a body of water could be imagined. Desert, drear, pitiless, relentless, surrounds this sapphire sheet. It is as if a mirage had suddenly become a reality.

Last November the California development company, which irrigates the great Imperial valley, made a cut in the bank of the Colorado river, four miles south of the boundary line between California and Lower California. This cut was 60 feet wide and 7 feet deep, and was calculated to carry an immense volume of water to supplement the canal supply of the Imperial colonies. At first the great water course filled with silt, and then the river began to rise and the cut began to grow larger.

The expected low river, a feature of every winter season, did not come, but instead the water continued to rise, and March 15 one-ninth of the entire flow of the great river was being diverted. From that time until the middle of June the flow increased steadily.

The record of M. V. Hardy, a hydrographer in the government service shows that July 8, 25,000 cubic feet of water per second were flowing through the cut and the canals of the company. This has since been increased to 37,000 cubic feet of water a second, and today 86 per cent of the river's flow is coming down the new channel, according to the government hydrographer, and he advised the writer that shortly the entire flow would be diverted from the original channel and into the great interior basin.

Everything that money and brains could devise has been done to check the torrents of water pouring from the west side of the river bank. Engineers of the California Development Company and the Southern Pacific Company have pitted their wits in vain against the torrent. Piles were driven in the hope that the tide might be stemmed; their usefulness was but a matter of days. The task was abandoned and it was determined to let capricious nature have its way.

Approaching Salton sea from the west one sees an impressive object lesson of the new sea's encroachment. Some 200 yards from the shore there rises a structure very like the blockhouses of historic memory. The portholes are there and from a distance the building stands grim and forbidding. Once it was the principal building of a great salt works. Now the two lower stories are under the waves made saline by the great salt deposits about the building.

Soon to be enveloped by the encroaching waters are engines and cars and a complete railroad system. The locomotives had been run to the highest point of the line, but the track is now under water and soon the smokestacks alone will be visible. Along three rows of buildings are falling into the creeping sea and of a once great industry, that of the New Liverpool salt company, not a remnant will soon be left.

A novel experience is in store for the traveler. Straight toward the sea go the tracks of the great transcontinental sea. There is a swish of parting waters and slowly the train creeps over its disintegrating roadbed. At places the track is 6 inches under water and only an occasional sandhill marks its hidden course. There is over two miles of this sort of ride, then for 20 miles more the trains run close by or in sight of the softly rippling inland sea.

This part of the line has been abandoned since the water passed over it recently. For the past month hundreds of men, largely recruited from the Indians living in the vicinity, have been feverishly at work laying a new track on higher ground. It was ready none too soon. Today the trains are taking the longer circuit and when they will again use the old track is a matter of conjecture only.

There is grave apprehension at Imperial. The new river is making for itself a channel through rich farms and turning level and arable lands into deep water courses and watery wastes. More than a dozen fine farms have been wiped out by this stream, which is a half dozen miles wide. In places it has attained no great depth as yet, but will eventually find its permanent channel.

Only the banks of the great main Imperial canal make a barrier to stay the course of the errant river and prevent its spreading over all the great improved area that has so miraculously been reclaimed from a desert.

The town proper is 75 feet below sea level and there is a gentle slope lowward until Old Beach, nearly 30 miles away, is reached. Salton is 265 feet below the level of the sea.

Indio, Coachella, Mecca, Thermal, Volcano Springs and other outlying desert settlements are far below the sea's level, and if the river is not turned back to its old channel the damage will be beyond compare.

At Imperial alone crops were last year harvested from 80,000 acres and scattered over the group of settlements, on land as fertile as the Nile delta, are well nigh 8,000 people. Unless the break in the Colorado river is bridged before next spring's freshets come these people will be penniless and homeless, and the climate and topography of a quarter of a great state will have been changed.

Competent engineers say that it will cost $1,000,000 to stop the flow. Plainly it seems to be a matter in which the government must act and that quickly. Private enterprise cannot undertake so monumental a task.

There are numerous plans for turning the river back to its old channels. It is significant, however, that none of these plans are at present being tried. Nothing is being done to stay the flood of muddy water. The water is receding, however, and before another spring freshet there will doubtless have been constructed permanent works confining the erratic river to its normal bounds.

NEW YORK, March 8, Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 105¾, American Locomotive 67¾, American Smelting 153¾, Anaconda 259½, Atchison 90¾, Baltimore & Ohio 109¾, Brooklyn Transit 79¾, Canadian Pacific 170½, Erie 41⅞, Missouri Pacific 93⅜, New York Central 145, Northern Pacific 212⅜, Ontario & Western 48⅝, Pennsylvania 135⅝, Reading 128, Rock Island 26¼, St. Paul 177¾, Southern Railway 35¾, Southern Pacific 65⅝, Union Pacific 150¾, United States Steel 35⅞, United States Steel preferred 105¾, Wabash preferred 55½.

10—Opening prices in the stock market today showed narrower changes than for some time, and the market displayed a good deal of the sluggishness that was in evidence yesterday. When prices were not actually unchanged, they did not vary much more than ⅛ above or below yesterday's closing.

11 The indifference in the movement of prices manifested at the opening encouraged the bears to sell the list, and they offered Reading, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel preferred freely. Gradually railroads stocks showed more stability and a rise of a point in Atchison and a demand for Union Pacific turned the market upwards at 10.30. Early declines reached 1¼ in Reading and General Electric and 1 in United States Steel preferred, Amalgamated Copper and Northern Pacific. These losses were only partially recovered before the market weakened again, when Reading sold down to 125⅞. Colorado Fuel moved up 2 points and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie preferred.

Noon—Money on call, steady at 5 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 5 a 5½. Reading was forced 2 points below last night, but buying orders came in at the lower level and prices rallied. Union Pacific was responsive and rose 1 above yesterday. Bonds were irregular.

ALGONKINS THE WINNERS.

Defeat the Intermediates, 21 to 13—St. Mary's, Holy Name Team Beaten by Tigers.

In the junior league last night, at the Algonkin Club rooms, the Algonkins defeated the Intermediates, 21 to 13. The line-up was as follows:

Algonkins.		Intermediates.
Holmes, l. f.		l. f., Rose
Stark, r. f.		r. f., Adams
Hale, c.		c., Hans
Young, l. b.		l. b., Koschny
Freeman, r. b.		r. b., Dillon

Score—Algonkins 21; Intermediates 13. Baskets—Holmes 1, Hale 4, Young 1, Freeman 3; Rose 2, Adams 1, Dillon 1. From fouls—Young 3; Dillon 1, Rose 2. Officials—Rev. Mr. Pomeroy and Mr. Springett.

At the armory last night the Holy Name team of St. Mary's parish surprised those who had seen their former rough and tumble work by the good game they played against the Tigers. If anything, they had the best of the Tigers, who were rougher than the visitors. The St. Mary's developed a passing game that no one ever suspected they had. The game was open and fast and the enthusiastic and at times wild rants of the small gathering of spectators raised such a racket that it was almost impossible to think. The Tigers won out by the narrow margin of two points, 17 to 15, when, from their practice and the way they have played in the past, they should have beaten the visitors two or three to one. The line-up:

Tigers.		St. Mary's.
Carlisle, l. f.		l. f., Kirwin
McManus, r. f.		r. f., Martin
Briggs, c.		c., Hayes
Brack, l. b.		l. b., Devine, Hickey
Millington, r. b.		r. b., McCarthy

Score—Tigers 15; St. Mary's 15. Baskets—Carlisle 4, Briggs 1, Millington 2; Kirwin 1, Martin 4, McCarthy 1. From fouls—Carlisle; Martin. Referee—McLean.

COMMANDER HAMPTON OF LAWTON POST ENTERTAINS.

James H. Hampton, commander of Charles E. Lawton Post, No. 5, G. A. R., entertained the post and a few guests at the Post hall on Thames street in honor of his sixty-third birthday Wednesday evening. Caterer Bacon H. Allen had covers for 32 and the following menu was discussed and thoroughly enjoyed: Cold tongue, chicken salad, potato salad, Beans, pickles, bread, coffee, oranges, apples, ice cream, cake, cigars.

The commander said that after the close of the war he was for a number of years a railroad engineer, and afterwards took a position as chief engineer on a steam yacht. On one occasion in 1871 they started to make a run to Newport, but a heavy fog shut down upon them so they ran into New London. After the fog lifted they went back to New York, and it was 29 years before he reached Newport, when he came to take his present position at "The Breakers," in 1895. Mr. Hampton gave an interesting account of some of the exciting scenes during the Civil war in the army.

His remarks called out the boys in song and story, which lasted till a late hour. All joined heartily in singing the old war songs, led by Colonel John Rogers at the organ. Solos were given by Comrade George A. Pritchard, Herbert C. Tilley and Benny Rankin. Sheridan's Ride was recited by Comrade Bailey, while entertaining stories were told by the comrades which kept the campfire burning till a late hour.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the junior and senior chapters of the New England local assembly, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will be held in St. James' Episcopal Church, New Bedford, beginning Friday evening, March 16, and continuing through Saturday and Sunday. Delegates from the local chapters have been selected as follows: From Emmanuel Chapter—John Mahan, William H. Young, Francis M. Sisson. From St. George's Chapter—Rev. Bertal Feeney, Dickinson Holmes.

RULES FOR RACING.

Reported by Conference Committee of the Atlantic Coast Yacht Clubs.

The report of the conference committee of the Atlantic Coast yacht clubs on the racing rules has been published. At the final meeting, held February 8, at the New York Yacht Club house, it was unanimously decided that the rules agreed upon should be recommended for adoption by the several clubs interested.

Delegates were present from the following clubs: Atlantic Yacht Club, Beverly Yacht Club, Boston Yacht Club, Larchmont Yacht Club, Eastern Yacht Club, Corinthian Yacht Club, of Marblehead; Corinthian Yacht Club of Philadelphia, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, New York Yacht Club, the Yacht Racing Club of Long Island Sound, composed of 23 clubs, and the Yacht Racing Club of Massachusetts, composed of 25 clubs.

The measurement for classification and the time allowance remain unchanged. The new classification is as follows:

Schooners.

First Class, A.—All over 90 feet, rating measurement.

Ninety Foot Class, B.—Not over 90 feet and over 75 feet, rating measurement.

Seventy-five Foot Class, C.—Not over 75 feet and over 61 feet, rating measurement.

Sixty-four Foot Class, D.—Not over 61 feet and over 55 feet, rating measurement.

Fifty-five Foot Class, E.—Not over 55 feet and over 47 feet, rating measurement.

Forty-seven Foot Class, D. D.—Not over 47 feet and over 40 feet, rating measurement.

Forty Foot Class, E. E.—Not over 40 feet, rating measurement.

Sloops and Yawls.

First Class, F.—All over 100 feet, rating measurement.

One Hundred Foot Class, G.—Not over 100 feet and over 82 feet, rating measurement.

Eighty-two Foot Class, H.—Not over 82 and over 68 feet, rating measurement.

Sixty-eight Foot Class, J.—Not over 68 feet and over 57 feet, rating measurement.

Fifty-seven Foot Class, K.—Not over 57 feet and over 48 feet, rating measurement.

Forty-eight Foot Class, L.—Not over 48 feet and over 40 feet, rating measurement.

Forty Foot Class, M.—Not over 40 feet and over 33 feet, rating measurement.

Thirty-three Foot Class, N.—Not over 33 feet and over 27 feet, rating measurement.

Twenty-seven Foot Class, P.—Not over 27 feet and over 22 feet, rating measurement.

Twenty-two Foot Class, Q.—Not over 22 feet and over 18 feet, rating measurement.

Eighteen Foot Class, S.—Not over 18 feet, rating measurement.

Every yacht of 40 feet rating measurement and under, launched after January 1, 1905, shall rate at the highest limit of her class, when racing in her regular class.

The restrictions in the matter of sails when yachts are in racing trim are as follows:

A sloop, mainsail, forestaysail, jib, flying jib, jib-topsail, gaff-topsail and spinnaker. A sloop over thirty-three feet rating measurement may carry a club-topsail.

A yawl, same as a sloop, with mizzen, mizzen-topsail, and mizzen-staysail.

A schooner, mainsail, foresail, forestaysail, jib, flying jib, jib-topsail, fore and main gaff or club topsail, main-topmast-staysail and spinnaker.

A three masted schooner, same as a schooner, with mizzen, mizzen-topsail and mizzen-staysail.

A yacht may set light sails over, or in place of, working sails, and may carry square sails, square topsails and ringtails (together or separately) in place of a spinnaker. A pole masted yacht may carry her regular spar topsails.

The total number of men permitted on a yacht during a race shall not exceed that given in the following table:

Schooners.

Classes A, B, C, D, E and DD, one man for every 250 square feet of sail area and fraction thereof.

Class EE, 40 foot class, 9 men.

Sloops and Yawls.

Classes F, G, H, J, K and L, one man for every 250 square feet of sail area and fraction thereof.

Class M, 40 foot class, 9 men.
Class N, 33 foot class, 6 men.
Class P, 27 foot class, 5 men.
Class Q, 22 foot class, 4 men.
Class R, 18 foot class, 3 men.
Class S, 15 foot class, 3 men.

No person shall board or leave a yacht after the preparatory signal for her class has been made, except in case of accident or injury to a person on board.

The above are the salient features of the new rules. The rule governing the "right of way" touches upon all the points involved and is interesting.

Each club or association may adopt local regulations not in conflict with the rules, which shall govern such local questions as "club member on board," "amateur helmsman and crew," "percentage in series races," "appeal from regatta committee's decision," etc.

ACTIVE WORK FOR ARMY TROOPS.

President Roosevelt's idea of greater activity for the troops of the army will be carried into effect at once. Every company of infantry, battery of field artillery and troop of cavalry will have weekly marches of from 12 to 15 miles, monthly tours in the field of three days of camping exercise, and at least 21 days of consecutive encampment each year. The garrison work of the troops is also carefully outlined, while the field work, such as marches and target practice, will be conducted with the soldier carrying his full kit, as he would in war, a recommendation made to the President by Major General Wood. This is with the idea of making troops familiar with their equipment, so they may become accustomed to the so-called burden and know what to expect when they are ordered into the field away from the conveniences of the garrison.

The order has been awaited with keen expectation by all officers, and will be issued in a few days, to go into effect at once along lines which have been developed by the General Staff, based on a memorandum which came some weeks ago from the White House. The President, in his observations of the military personnel, came to the conclusion that there was not enough practical work for the men in the ranks, and, for that matter, for the officers themselves. The latter have their schools, involving work which some military observers regard as altogether out of proportion to the needs of the profession, and Mr. Roosevelt considered that it would be advantageous to reproduce as nearly as possible the demands for equipment and conduct which will be imposed by actual warfare.

NEW TELEPHONE NUMBERS.

Most of the Old Single Line Calls Are Retained, While Nearly All Others Are Changed.

The new telephone directory which is being distributed makes one feel like going to school again, for there is much to learn, as a very small percentage will find that the old numbers will be of service to them. The Police call still remains 15, and that of the Fire Department 350, since to change either of these might be considered a dangerous experiment. So far as possible those having special lines have been allowed to retain their old numbers, though of course where one party has had two telephones on one line one of these numbers of necessity has been changed. For instance, the News line number has been 17, with a ring of 2 for the business office and a ring of 3 for the editorial rooms. The change makes the business office 17 and the editorial rooms 782, with 3903 the number of the toll station in the business office.

The total number of telephones served by the local exchange, except those rented to the city, which are quite numerous, was 1517 March 1. This of course is the low ebb, for in summer the number naturally increases a few hundred while the number of calls jumps up tremendously. One probably does not realize how generally telephones are in use in Newport, but as an example the News building may be cited: It took just 11 new directories to replace the old ones removed, which allows a directory to each telephone.

THE TUBERCULOSIS MEETING.

The object of the meeting under the auspices of the Tuberculosis Association is to arouse interest in the special problem of the advanced consumptive in this community, a side of the tuberculosis problem which has perhaps been somewhat neglected, and to create sentiment for better private and public provision for their needs.

Dr. Knopf, the main speaker of the evening, comes from a city where (3) large and expensive hospitals are maintained by the city for chronic and destitute consumptives, Rev. James Austin Richards will make some introductory remarks, and during the exercises a resolution will be presented to regard to the care and treatment of advanced consumptives in Newport.

NEW FREIGHT STEAMER LAUNCHED.

The new freight steamer Pequonnock, building for the New England Navigation Company, for service on Long Island Sound, has been launched from Roach's shipyard, Chester, Pa. On the christening platform were Mr. Stephenson Taylor, the consulting engineer; Captain Jacob W. Millor, second vice president and general manager; Captain H. O. Nicholson, superintendent, and Mr. J. H. Jenkins, the assistant manager, all of the New England Navigation Company, owners of the vessel. Miss Margaret Dickinson, the 12-year-old daughter of the superintendent of the yard, R. Trevor Dickinson, was sponsor for the vessel.

The Pequonnock will be used for carrying freight to Long Island Sound ports from New York. Her first use will be upon the Bridgeport service, her name being taken from the old Indian name of Bridgeport. The Pequonnock is 275 feet long, 45 feet beam and 19 feet depth of hold. She will have a triple expansion engine, size 21, 34 and 56 by 42 in. and Scotch boilers 13 feet by 10.5 feet.

DANCING CLASS RECEPTION.

Yesterday afternoon, at the Builders' and Merchants' Exchange Hall, Miss Mary V. Palmer held a reception for her children's dancing class, in the presence of a number of relatives and others. From 5 to 6 o'clock there was a march, general dancing and class work; at 6 refreshments, ice cream and cake, were served, and from 6:30 to 7:30 there was a german. The children have been under instruction since November 1 only, and are certainly a credit to their instructor, whose first season this is. A handsome basket of flowers was given Miss Palmer during the afternoon by Mr. Hugh Williamson, whose daughter Janet is in the class.

STILL THE POST CARDS COME.

New kinds of post cards are still arriving, the latest being ten colored views of Old House Week carnival street scenes and floats, printed in Germany. New lines of cards are constantly being shown, and while the dealers already have enormous stocks they feel it necessary to lay in new sorts as fast as they appear. There was recently shown here a line of German cards, by a salesman direct from the other side, which comprised about the finest cards ever seen about here. The price ranged from that of those on the market today to 25 cents each. The last-named are works of art, and while the price staggered the local dealers the salesman said that on the other side of the water these high-priced cards had met a popular demand and in his belief it would not be long before they struck the fancy of Americans. It is predicted that this is to be the greatest post card year yet, and up to the present time, with all the competition by manufacturers, there has been no break in the retail price in Newport and the various dealers say that they are not to be the first to make a break.

THE LATEST IN JEWELRY.

Somber Unburnished Effects Are Now Designed to be Worn with Deep and Half Mourning.

[Washington Star.]

The decided novelties in jewelry just now are to be found in the wealth of beautiful ornaments designed for deep and half mourning, and so fascinating is the array that even the woman who is not in the garb of grief cannot pass by without purchasing. The somber unburnished effects have an irresistible beauty and especially when inset with imitation jewels they are artistic in the extreme.

Nearly every one knows the added brilliancy of the rhinestone when combined with gun metal, and in the same way pearls and amethysts stand out from dark settings with a peculiar luster which neither gold nor bright silver can give them. Of the three gems, the rhinestone embedded in dull gray metal forms the favorite jeweled ornaments of half mourning, and many unique trinkets have been evolved to catch miladi's fancy.

Of these no more effective bit of jewelry could be imagined than a narrow linked band for the neck composed of 15 or 20 thin, pillow-like squares of gun metal, into the centre of each of which seems to be pressed a sparkling rhinestone chip. Brooches, too, in this silken surfaced metal have a charm all their own if rhinestones are in some way worked into their design. A peculiar conceit is an Egyptian scarab with a line of tiny white stones run into the curve of each of the wings as they spread apart. A branch of mistletoe showing rhinestones or pearl berries is not only wonderfully dainty, but always seems to carry with it a mystic attraction.

As a handy stock pin the novelty of the hour is a wide or slender bar of gun metal holding high at its centre a single rhinestone that varies in size on different pins, from a pin head to the little fingernail. Striking as these may seem from description, they affect a pleasing bright ornament rather than a gaudy one.

Other jewelry for half mourning which is evolved from polished jet finds equally pronounced favor with all women who affect black costumes, and is as elegant as it is costly. One of the noticeable fads of the open season has been the number of jet dog collars, that finish filmy black yokes and give a distinguished height to the neck. Diamond discs, and various pendant-shaped cuttings of the black stone are joined to give a lacey open-work appearance, and not infrequently rhinestone bars or clasps add a touch of sunshine brilliance where the collar closes at the back.

Jet neck chains from which dangle all sorts of barbaric-looking pendants cut from the polished black stone, bracelets, brooches and beautifully carved belt buckles, all adorn the exquisite frocks which have taken the place of old-fashioned unattractive half-mourning dresses. To deck smart coiffures the very latest ornament is a high, wide back comb of handsomely cut jet.

In very deep mourning jewelry has also come to play an important part, though it is as chastely subdued as the crape on which it rests. Amethysts, pearls and black pearls, jet of the very dullest, blackest finish, gun metal of equally somber hue, and lusterless black enamel, all are employed in the make-up of these unassuming but exceedingly refined bits of adornment.

This introduction of amethysts, large and small, into mourning jewelry is a distinct novelty, and the quiet beauty of the effect which it produces defies description. The stones are set both in flower designs of oxidized silver and in quaint gun metal bands and chains. As a simple piece of mourning jewelry a pair of dainty stock pins show a narrow line of small square amethysts set so close together that the gun metal sockets are not in evidence, except as they deaden any decided brilliancy of the stones. These, too, pearls both pink and black are imitated so perfectly now, that in the less expensive jewelry the imitations are as effective as the very high-priced article, and they appear in many of the latest mourning trinkets.

BILL TO LICENSE LAUNCHES.

Act Passed in United States Senate Will Affect a Number of Small Craft in This Section.

In the United States Senate this week an act was passed that, if passed by the House of Representatives, will affect quite a number of launches in this section. The bill is known as Senate Bill 4004 and is an amendment to Section 4426 of the Revised Statutes—regulation of motor boats, and is as follows:

"All vessels of 15 gross tons or less propelled in whole or in part by gas, gasoline, petroleum, naphtha, fluid, or electricity, and carrying passengers for hire, shall carry one life preserver, of the sort prescribed by the regulations of the board of supervising inspectors, for every passenger carried, and no such boat while so carrying passengers shall be operated or navigated except in charge of a person duly licensed for such service by the local board of inspectors. No examination shall be required as a condition of the obtaining of such a license, and any such license shall be revoked or suspended by the local board of inspectors for misconduct, gross negligence, recklessness in navigation, intemperance, or violation of law on the part of the holder, and if revoked, the person holding such license shall be incapable of obtaining another such license for one year from the date of revocation."

The portion of Section 4426 now in effect provides that all vessels of this kind above 15 tons carrying freight or passengers for hire are made subject to the rules for small steamers, and must have a licensed engineer and pilot.

In the discussion in the Senate it was explained by Senator Frye that the provisions in the amendment, given above, were by the Department of Commerce and Labor considered sufficient for the protection of passengers. He said that these small craft are generally run by competent persons and that as far as he had heard no accidents had happened to those run for hire, though accidents had happened to similar boats used by private persons. It was felt that the power of revocation of license would be sufficient, that it was not necessary to have the man who runs the boat pass an examination, for he could leave to run the boat in a couple of days, if he was intelligent enough to be entrusted with a boat.

The license can be had for the asking, but the life preservers will make a difference to these small craft. Some place must be provided for the proper stowage of the preservers, and they must be kept in condition for service, which means that they cannot be allowed to mildew.

This act, having passed the Senate, now goes to the House of Representatives for action. The present bill was prepared by the Department of Commerce and Labor, and is much milder than the bill which Senator Frye introduced, but it is felt by the department that it will meet every requirement of the case. For some time there has been agitation in relation to the management of these small power boats and in this case the government covers only those used for hire, not affecting those used for pleasure only. It seems likely that some action will be necessary in relation to those used for pleasure, because many of them are run by boys and others, who seem to have no idea of the rules of the road at sea, and these do a great deal to bother the captains of larger craft, who often have to go out of their course because some incompetent person is in charge of a small motor boat and gets in their way, contrary to the rules of the road.
